WE CAN DEPEND ON RUSSIA, WITH AID FROM US, ROOT SAYS

Unqualified Encouragement, Moral and Financial, Will Avert Separate Peace.

HAS HOPE FOR FUTURE

Nation Will Emerge Victorious and Strong if Present Government Retains Control.

SEND ARMY, URGES RUSSELL

General Scott Praises Work of Russian Officers and Soldiers In June Offensive.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Russia, newest of democracies, grows stronger of heart and purpose daily, and with aid from the United States can be depended upon to do her part in the great war and emerge a powerful State. This was the message brought to President Wilson and Secretary Lansing today by Elihu Root and his fellow-members of the American mission sent to Russia three months ago.

Unqualified encouragement from the United States, moral and financial when necessary, is absolutely essential to keeping life in the new Government, the Commissioners agreed. A separate peace with Germany obviously is the gravest fear. Left to fight along with her present Government in control, the President was told, Russia will emerge triumphant and strong, but if either by great masses of troops or clever propaganda Germany should accomplish the overthrow of the Kerensky Government the outlook would be dark indeed.

Only one written report, it is understood, was submitted to Secretary Lansing. It was not made public and may not be. From high sources it is known, however, that the commission was agreed on virtually all essentials. There may have been differences of opinion as to the best method of obtaining results, but the opinion of present conditions and high hope for the future was unanimous.

Root Enthusiastic.

None was stronger in his conviction that there is the greatest hope for Russia than Mr. Root himself. Though conservative by virtue of long diplomatic and political experience, it was with difficulty that he suppressed his enthusiasm. Other members of the party who shared his optimism and discussed their views were Charles Edward Russell, a former Socialist; James Duncan, a labor leader, and Major Stanley Washburn, a man of long experience in Russian affairs. The latter two were agreed that one great need of Russia is publicity regarding America's intention in the war.

Mr. Russell went a little further than the others by declaring emphatically in favor of sending American troops to the eastern front immediately. He said their presence would be of the greatest value in strengthening the morale of the Russians.

The return and report of the mission was about as informal and as devoid of secrecy and red tape as anything Washington has witnessed in a long time. The members arrived this morning on a regular train and throughout the day smilingly answered inquiries and seemed anxious to help in every way to disseminate the information they had acquired. Final work on the report began shortly after their arrival, and it was ready early this afternoon.

The mission, headed by Mr. Root, called at the White House at 4 o'clock and remained with the President about an hour. Members of the National Woman's Party made futile attempts to use a banner addressed to Mr. Root, but he entered and left the White House yard by a side gate, while the women waited for him out in front.

The work of the commission now is virtually ended. Its members will remain here a few days and with the exception of the army officers, then will returns to their homes.

A republic is certain to result from the situation in Russia, in the opinion of Mr. Root. In explanation of the apparent ease with which the people have thrown off the forms of a despotic monarchy and turned so readily to the idea of representative government, Mr. Root referred to the fact that the population was nearly 90 per cent. agricultural. The peasant farmers had long been accustomed to the idea of local self-government through their Mayors in their little communities, and in a large way through the Zemstvos, which gathered in every district and exercised a large measure of control over local affairs. It was comparatively easy with this foundation to expand the idea of local self-government to national self-government. The Russian people were accustomed to council among themselves, making representative gatherings easy.

Extremists Under Control.

"The extreme element, that favoring the destruction of all property, has been placed under control," said Mr. Root. "In fact, it had practically been driven out of its temporary ascendancy before the commission left Petrograd. It believe its exclusion is permanent and that it cannot regain control against the forces of law and order.

"We took a long time to form this Government of the United States of America, and I judge from the newspapers that we have not yet perfected it, and that a good deal remains to be done. It will take some time for the new Russian Government to take form, though it is a fact that in the short period of its existence remarkable progress has been made in that direction. It cannot be said that the bottom has been struck, but the prospects certainly are bright."

23 British Ships Sunk by U-Boats Last Week

LONDON, Aug. 8.—There was a slight increase in the number of British merchant vessels sunk by submarines or mines during the last week, according to the official statement issued tonight. Twenty-one British vessels of more than 1,600 tons and two vessels of less than 1,600 tons were sunk last week. Thirteen ships were attacked unsuccessfully. No fishing boats were lost.

The statement of the Admiralty reads:

Arrivals of all nationalities over 100 tons, 2,673; sailings, 2,796.

British merchantmen sunk by mine or submarine, over 1,600 tons, 21, including two in week ended July 29; under 1,600 tons, 2. Fishing vessels sunk, none.

British vessels unsuccessfully attacked, 13, including one in week ended July 22 and two the week ended July 29.

The number of vessels over 1,600 tons reported sunk in the above report is an increase of three over the number sunk the previous week. There is a decrease of one in the vessels of less than 1,600 tons.

SCHEIDEMANN FOR OUSTING CABINET

German Socialist Leader Demands That Michaelis Government Be Supplanted.

A PEACE NEED, HE ASSERTS

Vorwaerts Says the Party Group Will Oppose the New Ministry on Principle.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 8 — Philipp Scheidemann, leader of the majority Socialists in the Reichstag, in a speech delivered recently at Mannheim, Baden, before 6,000 persons demanded in the interest of peace the speedy substitution for the present government of Chancellor Michaelis of a government really representing the will of the German people.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 8.—German Socialists will oppose the newly constituted Government at Berlin on principle, the Socialist newspaper Vorwärts says in its comment on the Ministerial appointments.

"Persons so foolish as to expect a great gain in the direction of a parliamentary régime," says the Catholic newspaper Germania, "will naturally be disappointed," but it expresses the opinion that the presence of Catholic representatives in the Government greatly improves the system.

It appears that Dr. Spahn, leader of the Catholic Centre Party in the Reichstag, will be forced to retire from parliamentary life, at least temporarily, on account of his appointment as Prussian Minister of Justice. He must resign his seat owing to a Constitutional proviso upon accepting the portfolio, but it is said that there is nothing to prevent him from standing for re-election. He will accordingly do this, though he cannot become a member of the Bundesrat.

Emperor William has telegraphed to Dr. Johannes Kaempff, President of the Reichstag, in reply to a telegram from that body last Sunday, saying in part:

The spirit which sprang three years ago from the depths of the people is still alive among us and has been shown these days when the brave fighters under our great battle leaders have mastered unprecedented attacks, and, remembering the strength of the people, I am sure they will stand firm until a peace guaranteeing the honor and greatness of the country and its happy and sure future is obtained.

August Worms, leader of the Flemish movement in Belgium, said in an interview in the Berlin Tageblatt that the aim of the movement was the re-establishment of Belgium as a dual monarchy of Flanders and Walloonia under King Albert. Herr Worms took Austria-Hungary as an example of the movement for "free Flanders in free Belgium."

BRITAIN RESOLVED TO SEE SERBIA FREE

Lloyd George Asserts His Country's Honor Is Involved in the Task.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Premier Lloyd George, speaking today at the luncheon of the Serbian Society of Great Britain in honor of N. P. Pachitch, the Serbian Premier, said that the "first condition of peace is restoration, complete and without reservation." The Premier added that he believed in little nations, and that he belonged to one himself, saying:

"I believe in the nation which can sing about its defeats. Serbia has sung right through the centuries, not of victory, but of defeat that submerged her in the flood of barbarism. Serbia always has hoped, and now her day of reckoning comes. The nation that sings of her defeats is immortal.

"However long this war may last, Great Britain's honor is involved in seeing Serbia free. Serbia and Belgium are the guardians of the gate, and bravely have they defended them. The troops of Serbia never have been disheartened; they still are guarding the gate. The British extend once more the hand of friendship to Serbia. We will go through the war together to the end."

Premier Lloyd George said that Europe owed much to Premier Pachitch, for it was through his action that "civilization accepted the challenge of the barbarism of Prussia."

SENATE PASSES FOOD CONTROL BILL BY VOTE OF 66 TO 7

Conference Report Adopted and Measure Goes to President Tomorrow for Signing.

SURVEY BILL ALSO PASSED

LEWIS APPEALS FOR UNITY

Says We Will Send Troops to Russia and Italy—Reed Defends His Opposition.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The President won his long fight over the Food Administration bill today when the Senate, by a vote of 66 to 7, adopted the conference report on the measure. The Senators voting against the bill were:

Democrats.

HARDWICK of Georgia.
HOLLIS of New Hampshire.
REED of Missouri.

Republicans.

GRONNA of North Dakota.
LA FOLLETTE of Wisconsin.
FRANCE of Maryland.
PENROSE of Pennsylvania.

Senator Gore, Democrat, of Oklahoma, being paired with Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia, who was not present, did not vote, explaining that if able to vote he would vote against the adoption of the report. Senator Sherman, Republican, of Illinois, who also was paired, announced that if able to vote he would vote negatively.

The Senate also passed the Food Survey bill; it was a viva voce vote.

Sweeping Grant of Power.

Under the Food Administration bill as passed, after nearly two months of delay in the Senate, the President receives a grant of sweeping bowers of food control, such as never before was conferred upon an executive. He won his contention for the one-man food control and immediately upon signing the measure it is expected, will appoint Herbert C. Hoover food administrator. The President also won a notable victory in the elimination of the Senate amendment creating a Congressional board to supervise the conduct of the war.

The bill will go to the House on Friday for the signature of Speaker Clark and will then be whisked back to the Senate for the signature of Vice President Marshall. The bill must be signed by the respective presiding officers when in each case the Senate and the House are in session. It will be in the hands of the President Friday night for his signature.

The vote that finally passed the bill, after the bitterest struggle any war legislation had encountered, came at the end of a day of tense debate. In an impassioned appeal to the Senate to put aside prejudice and back up the Administration, Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, Democratic whip, declared that the whole world was watching to see what the Senate would do.

Senator Lewis implored the Senate not to withhold from the President the vote of confidence that the passage of the Food Administration bill would assure him. He asserted that the United States soon would dispatch troops to Russia and Italy, so as to throw as much force as possible to the Allies.

Senator Lewis was asked by THE NEW YORK TIMES later if his reference to troops being sent to Russia and Italy was based upon anything said during his conference early in the week with the President.

"Not at all," replied the Senator. "It was not an inspired statement; I made it on my own responsibility."

The Vote in Detail.

The vote that disposed of the Food Administration bill was taken at 4 o'clock, under the general consent agreement of yesterday. Here is the vote in detail:

Conscription Bill Passed by Canadian Legislature

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—The Canadian Conscription bill successfully passed the last legislative stage tonight when it received third reading in the Senate. It becomes effective after the formalities of royal assent and Government proclamation.

The date on which the first class will be called comprising single men between the ages of twenty and thirty-two years, will be determined as soon as tribunals are created to pass upon applications for exemption.

The authorities expect to have the 100,000 men, sought by the bill, in training this Autumn.

BROTHER DECEIVED KAISER, BRITISH SAY

Prince Henry Accused of Misrepresenting His Talk with King George in July, 1914.

QUESTION IN THE COMMONS

Statement Will Be Made on Gerard's Revelation of the Emperor's Telegram to Wilson.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Two members of Parliament have given notice of questions to the Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary with reference to statements contained in the Kaiser's telegram to President Wilson respecting Prince Henry of Prussia's report of his conversation with King George just before the outbreak of the war.

When the first chapters of ex-Ambassador Gerard's book containing the imperial telegram in question were published here it was announced on the highest authority that there was absolutely no foundation for the allegation that such statements were made by the King to Prince Henry. Prince Henry, it was said with emphasis, deliberately misrepresented the tenor of the conversation he had with his Majesty.

Prince Hinery, in the period just preceding the war, played a part which, it is stated by high authorities, was partly that of agent provocateur, partly that of devil's advocate, and wholly that of unscrupulous and unhesitating machiavellism. The opinion of the Prince held in the most exalted circles here is one that the language of diplomacy would be greatly strained to express.

King George's scrupulous observance of the constitutional limitations upon his acts and words is a matter of common knowledge in governmental circles. It is predicted that his ministers, who are to be questioned on the subject, will have no difficulty in satisfying the House of Commons and the country that the royal head of the British democracy conducted himself in his conversation with Prince Henry in a manner entirely beyond either reproach or suspicion.

The late King Edward's opinion of Emperor William has been shown by various published anecdotes. King George's opinion of the Kaiser's brother has not yet been made public, but it will make a piquant chapter when the memoirs of the present reign come to be printed.

GERARD HELPING ALLIES' CASE.

America Co-operating in War Arguments, Says Dutch Paper.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 8.—The semi-official Nieuwe Courant, commenting on Ex-Ambassador Gerard's new book and its revelation of the Kaiser's telegram to President Wilson in August, 1914, which the whole Dutch press publishes this morning, says:

"Gerard's book does not contain much that is new. The only new episode is the attack on the American Embassy, and Gerard's report to the commandant regarding the retention of British officials. This was in October, 1914, and yet the Germans used it in their campaign against America long afterward."

It will be remembered how often Revention used this material, even stating that the American Embassy in Berlin was an information bureau for the British.

Commenting on Premier Ribot's recent arrival in London, the Courant says it is connected with new measures giving the Allies equal advantages with America in the buying of munitions in the United States. "This is one of many measures," it says, "indicating America's intention to give most vigorous support to the war. She will support the Allies even in arguments about the war, as Gerard's publication shows."

The paper then asks if America's disinclination to join in the London conference means a desire to prolong the war. "We expected nothing else," it says. "America hesitated long, but now that she has started she wishes to see it through like England. Reports regarding negotiations with Japan would indicate that her policy is to avoid any collision that might make for the advantage of Germany."

Commenting on the London Daily News' recent report of peace proposals to Austria, the Courant denies the rumor and adds: "America did not sign the treaty in which the Allies agreed not to make a separate peace, so that whereas the Allies depend on Washington for the continuation of the war, they can nevertheless conclude peace without the permission of the United States. This question will be discussed with Ribot in London."

MOVES TO PROTECT PUBLIC AND ALLIES FROM PROFITEERS

War Industries Board Declares It Will Exert All Its Power to End Extortion.

BACKS PRESIDENT'S STAND

Fair Profits to Industries and Prices to All the Same as to the Government.

ALLIES MUST AGREE TO IT

Our Raw Materials Not to be Used for Profit Abroad — May Fix Coal Prices.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The War Industries Board in an official statement tonight announced that it would exert its powers to the fullest to end "the extortion now exacted for many commodities of prime necessity" to the United States Government, the Allies, and the consuming public.

While many of the details of the plan under which the board intends to proceed were not specified, it is evident that the members were sure of their ground, after consultation with the White House, and that the President was prepared to give the board powers to do its work.

The program, as understood, is to make the War Industries Board one of the most important of the Governmental agencies in directing prices which American industry will be permitted to charge for essentials. Its powers, however, will be used only in connection with materials which are directly involved in the waging of the war. In all of its dealings the new organization will work in the closest co-operation with the Federal Trade Commission and the White House.

It is the belief of the Government, as expressed in the statement, that American producers of raw materials and American manufacturers will co-operate in a patriotic movement to bring about the most effective war program.

No definite statement was made as to the steps which were to be taken if producers and manufacturers failed to respond, but there was the strongest intimation that drastic action, which might even call for legislation giving the Government power to commandeer and purchase necessities not included in the Food Control bill, might be asked for, if the situation demanded it.

Mr. Lovett Explains.

Robert S. Lovett, a member of the War Industries Board, and its central purchasing commission, added a word in this connection. He said that the board expected no trouble in dealing with the manufacturers, but had taken all phases of the problem under consideration at its recent meeting and had formulated plans to enforce its regulations.

When he was pressed for a further explanation, however, he smiled and said that he did not feel justified in adding to the information contained in the statement. He drew a parallel between the creation of the board with its unusual powers and the sending of an expeditionary force to France under Major General Pershing. Not all of the plans and movements of the expeditionary force were made public, he said, although the fact that it was to war against Germany in the most effective manner was announced.

In framing its policy the Government entered into negotiations with the allied countries and, it is understood, reached a favorable agreement. It will be insistent that the Allies adopt a course similar to that taken by the United States.

The statement issued today made no direct reference to existing contracts which American industries have with Allied Governments, and Judge Lovett refused to say whether these contracts would be abrogated. This is one of the matters under discussion and an effort is being made to reach an agreement with the industries which will meet the purposes of the Government and not work too great a hardship on the plants.

War Board's Statement.

Here is the text of the statement:

"It is the purpose of the War Industries Board to carry out the policy recently announced by the President, and with which the members of the Board are in complete accord, that in the purchase of war materials in this country our Allies shall be charged no more than our own Government has to pay. Guns and ammunition employed against our enemy are for our benefit as much when used by our own men; and it is obviously unjust to require our Allies when fighting our battles to pay our own people more than our own Government pays for the materials necessary to carry on the war. A mere statement of the proposition seems enough; and we are confident that our manufacturers, who have so patriotically responded thus far to the calls of our Government in this emergency, will readily accept this policy.

"But this policy has two important limitations. First, it is to be reciprocal. The Allies must henceforth apply the same principle in dealing with their own producers and in selling to us and in selling to each other. Second, the arrangement must be limited to war materials in order to protect our own industry. We must not allow raw materials sold by our producers at prices patriotically conceded to our Government and its allies for war purposes to be diverted to industry and trade abroad which may come in competition with

DRAFT CALL FOR 251,900 MEN ON SEPT. 1; THIRD OF NEW ARMY WILL GO TO CAMP; MOBILIZATION RULES TO BE OUT TODAY

New York City Rapidly Filling Her Draft Quota; 33% of Able Bodied Accepted Without Question

Deputy Attorney General Roscoe Conkling, in general charge of the draft examinations in New York City, sent the following telegram to Provost Marshal General Crowder at 11 o'clock last night:

New York, Aug. 8, 1917.

Up to 9 P. M. today 110 boards in New York City had called 67,786 men; 100 boards had examined 34,668 men; eighty boards had physically qualified 16,584 men; seventy boards had accepted outright, without question of exemption or discharge, 4,747 men.

Estimated physical disabilities in New York City amount to 33 per cent. It is estimated that 33 per cent. of the able-bodied men, without any question of exemption or discharge, are being accepted for service.

CONKLING.

CURBS EXEMPTION OF MARRIED MEN

Crowder Holds Them Liable to Draft if Relatives Will Support Wives.

Where Employers Agree to Pay Them, Dependency Claims Will Be Thrown Out.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Brig. Gen. Enoch Crowder, Provost Marshal General, tonight issued rules of far-reaching consequence to restrict the action of local exemption boards on claims for discharge from the draft because of alleged dependency.

The rules, which were telegraphed to the Governors of the States, follow:

"Under Presidential regulations the term 'dependent for support' has given rise to several further questions of principle affecting large numbers of persons.

"The general basis for ruling upon such questions should be the spirit and purpose of the act in providing for such discharge, wherever the terms of the act and of the regulations are not in themselves conclusive. The act authorizes the President to discharge wherever the parties drafted are 'in a status with respect to persons dependent upon them for support which renders their exclusion or discharge advisable.'

Dependency Cases Classed.

"Such dependency ordinarily renders discharge advisable, because since the drafted person loses his civil income and thus loses his means of support, the wife is left without support, and this lack of support is the effect which the act aims to avoid. But wherever such effect does not in fact follow, and the wife is not left reasonably adequate support, but will receive such support from other sources, there is no real dependency rendering discharge advisable.

"The following classes of cases are within this ruling:

"A WIFE AND CHILDREN.

"1. Where the parents or other relatives of the wife or husband are able, ready, and willing to provide adequate support for her (and children if any) during the absence of the husband.

"2. Where the wife owns land which has produced income by the husband's labor, but which could with reasonable certainty be rented, during his absence, to other persons so as to produce an adequate support.

Payments by Employers.

"3. Where there exists some arrangement by which the salary or wage of the husband is continued, in whole or in part, by third persons, being employers or insurers or others, and such portion of the salary or wage, either alone or with an allotment of his soldier's pay, or with other definite income, will furnish a reasonably adequate support.

"OTHER DEPENDENTS.

"1. Where in one of the foregoing ways a reasonably adequate support is provided for a widowed mother, infirm parents, or orphan child under sixteen years, of a son, brother, or father called into service.

"Under Presidential regulations providing that 'any certificate of discharge may be withdrawn, modified, or renewed by the local board' the board is authorized to reopen any claim of exemption already passed upon and still awaiting disposition on appeal to the district board, for the purpose of receiving any affidavits or making other inquiries relative to dependency as defined in the present rulings, and the local board shall transmit to the district board such affidavits and its own minute thereon, for consideration on appeal.

"The foregoing rulings are calculated to carry out the spirit and terms of the act, and to enable patriotic men to remain in the military service of their country wherever the burden of support hitherto carried by them alone is in a position to be distributed for a time among others who are patriotically ready to make in this manner their contribution to military service by setting another man free to enter the army."

THREE BOARDS FILL QUOTAS FOR DRAFT

Work Pushed Throughout the City—2,638 Were Obtained Yesterday.

BRIBERY CHARGES TAKEN UP

Hundreds of Eligibles Exempted by Too Lenient Physicians Will Be Re-examined.

Three exemption boards, one in Manhattan and two in Brooklyn, reported last night that they had obtained their quotas for the national army. The boards are No. 115, with headquarters in West Forty-seventh Street, near Ninth Avenue, Manhattan; No. 69, which has examining offices on Trautman Street, near Central Avenue, Brooklyn, and No. 66, with headquarters in the Erasmus Hall High School at Church and Flatbush Avenues. The quota allotted to Board 115 was 173 men, and Chairman Charles A. Durbin announced last night that "this board had more than its allotted quota of men who have passed the physical examination and who have not claimed exemption." The board will begin today the examination of scores of men who have claimed exemption, and these claims, it is said, will be thoroughly investigated in every case, and in every instance where the claims are not sustained by absolute proof the persons making them will be declared eligible for service and listed for the national army.

Board No. 69 reported last night that its quota of 180 men had been obtained with thirty-six men to spare. The board obtained 105 on Tuesday and 111 yesterday. The board examined 182 men yesterday and about the same number on Tuesday.

According to its figures, given out last night, Board No. 66 has its quota of 210 men and twenty-five men in addition, all of whom it is understood have waived exemption. Both of the Brooklyn boards it was said last night would examine all men who had filed claims of exemption and until those claims were disposed of the exact personnel of the quotas in the districts could not be given.

Two other boards in Brooklyn expect to obtain their quotas today. Board 72, with headquarters at Evergreen Avenue and Grove Street, the quota of which is 202 men, when the board adjourned last night had 200 men who had waived exemption, while Board 40, which is sitting at Forty-seventh Street and Third Avenue, last night had 208 men who had waived exemption. This board's quota is 221 men.

Many of the Manhattan boards are making good progress. For instance Board 116, out of 225 men examined yesterday, obtained seventy-six men who waived all claims of exemption. Board 131, which is examining men at 236 East Fifty-ninth Street, obtained seventy-five recruits out of 319 men examined. Board 176, in Waltestone, Queens, obtained seventy-four soldiers for the army after examining 169 registrants.

Two boards, both in Manhattan, which are in a class by themselves so far as obtaining men for the national army is concerned, are Board 107, with headquarters in Public School 62, at Hester and Essex Street, and Board 98, with headquarters at Attorney and Rivington Streets. The first named board up to 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon had examined 560 men and only three waived exemption. Board 98, however, made an even worse record and did not obtain a single man who waived exemption out of 400 examined. One of the three men who waived exemption before Board 107 was Francisco Spero, an Italian. Spero drove up in his wagon, was examined, waived exemption, and continued on his rounds.

"I will be ready whenever I am told to report," he said.

Reports from the various local boards received last night were considered very satisfactory by the officials in charge of the draft. Seventy-nine exemption boards examined 10,107 men. Of these 2,638 passed the tests and waived exemption. This made 9,786 men accepted to date. Each district yesterday on an average accepted 34 men.

Hughes Heads the Appeals Board.

The Chairmen of the 180 local boards in New York City were notified by telegraph last night that beginning today they must forward daily to the District Board of New York City the names of all persons who are examined and who have not been exempted or discharged from service. The District Board, which is the supreme court of the selective draft for New York City, organized yesterday. Ex-Justice Charles E. Hughes was unanimously elected Chairman, and William B. Davenport of Brooklyn, the Secretary.

Following the organization of the board it was announced that the Government will appeal every exemption claim granted by local boards in New York City, and it is understood that in appealing the thousands of such claims that have been filed, the Government will have the aid of a large number of lawyers who will be assigned by the Bar Association to represent the War Department before the District Board. The District Board for New York City has thirty members and will, it is understood, be divided into five sections of six members each, with a chairman for each section. Each section will sit in a separate room in the Federal Building, Manhattan, and will hear appeals from the boards in its district.

GEN. CROWDER URGES HASTE

Asks Governors to Tell the Boards to Certify the Lists Quickly.

FIVE DAYS FOR MOBILIZING

Citizens Called to Colors Will Become Federal Charges on Boarding Trains.

TOTAL FIRST QUOTA 755,700

Extra 10 Per Cent. for Any Who May Be Dropped—Warning Against Trachoma.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—On Sept. 1 the War Department will call one-third of the quota for the national draft army from each State to entrain for mobilization camps to which the men are to be assigned for training. They are to be sent to their camps during the first five days in Septembr.

To obtain men rapidly enough to carry out this mobilization movement General Crowder has called upon the Governor in each State to urge local boards to certify their lists with sufficient expedition to obtain this number of men by the first of next month. The States are therefore being called upon to complete one-third of their quotas for the national army in the next twenty-three days.

The quota assigned for the entire country was 687,000 men. General Crowder last week issued instructions for each State to draft 10 per cent. more than its quota, 68,700 additional men for the country, so as to make allowances for sickness and disabilities during the training of the National Army. This means that the number of men to be obtained from the first draft will be around 755,700 men.

Cantonments To Be Ready.

The War Department is ready to receive by Sept. 1 one-third of these men in the cantonments now being built. In other words, it will be ready by the 1st of next month to begin the mobilization of 251,900 men.

The quota for New York State has been fixed at 69,241. Adding 10 per cent. to take care of gaps caused by sickness gives a total of 76,165 men, of whom the third to be mobilized on Sept. 1 number 25,288.

General Crowder is conferring with the General Staff and its War College division regarding plans for the mobilization of the national army, its assignment to training cantonments, and the methods of transporting the drafted men to these points of rendezvous. Whether excursion trains will be run has not been determined. But each man drafted will be supplied with transportation to his mobilization point and to the cantonment where he is to be trained.

Message to Governors.

The General notified the Governors that regulations governing mobilization and certification from the district board will be sent to them tomorrow. His message follows:

"New regulations governing mobilization and the certification of men from district boards to Adjutant Generals will be mailed to you on Aug. 9. In the meantime, local boards should certify to district boards daily those who have been called and who have not been exempted or discharged either because they failed to file any claim or because their claim has been decided adversely.

"Strict compliance with this rule is necessary since on Sept. 1 the War Department will call for not to exceed one-third of the quota from each State to be entrained for mobilization camps between Sept. 1 and Sept. 5 unless we wish to be put in a position of not furnishing men as fast as the War Department is ready to receive them, each State should have accumulated by Sept. 1 a minimum of one-third of its quota not exempted or discharged. This can only be attained if local boards certify these lists up with great expedition."

Mobilization Rules in Hand.

The mobilization regulations referred to by General Crowder were in the hands of the printer tonight. They cover many pages and provide for every contingency that can be foreseen in the assembling of the men for the new army. The contingents of the various districts making up any call to the colors are to be assembled by the State authorities, provided with transportation to their training camp, furnished with means of subsistence on the way, and also provided with a blank telegraphic form with which to report the time of their arrival to the camp commander from a point six hours from destination. They will be regarded as passing into the authority of the army when they board the trains.

Provision is made also for filling vacancies which may occur in any district quota should men sent forward be re-

The quota of any district will not be regarded as filled until the camp authorities report back to the board that the full number ...s been called for has arrived and been ...inally accepted.

Guards Against Trachoma.

General Crowder also sent this caution to examining physicians of the local boards:

"Surgeon-General advises that in order to prevent the terrible ravages which result from the introduction into the army of that dread disease of the eyes known as trachoma, the lids of every recruit be everted to insure the absence of this disease and that any border-line or suspicious cases be referred to an ophthalmic surgeon especially qualified in this line."

OKLAHOMA BAND DEFIANT.

Notify Officials They Will Resist Being Taken Before Board.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 8.—A large group of draft resisters, gathered at Scipio, fifteen miles north of McAlester, sent word tonight to R. N. McMullan, United States Commissioner, that they would resist any effort to take them before an examining board, according to information received here by United States Marshal Enloe from Mr. McMullan.

The men were armed, Commissioner McMullan said. Mr. Enloe instructed Deputy Marshal Peters at McAlester to take fifteen men and proceed at once to Scipio.

Armed bands of draft resisters were reported forming in Payne County, fifty miles northwest of the district previously infested, in messages received at Marshal Enloe's office. Deputy Marshals were dispatched to investigate.

Homer Spence, 40 years old, one of the three men held responsible for organization of the uprising in Oklahoma against the draft was arrested in Seminole County yesterday. Spence, a Working Class Union organizer, was out at the time on $5,000 bail, under Federal indictment for conspiracy to obstruct operation of the conscription act. It was reported to Marshal Enloe that Spence was captured only after officers had engaged his companions in a fight. The prisoner has been taken to the State Penitentiary at McAlester.

Deputy Sheriff J. W. Cross and a posse from Sasakwa last night were led by William Hubier, a prisoner from Holdenville, to the farm of "Shorty" Elberly, where seventy-five sticks of dynamite, two rifles and a quantity of strychnine were found buried. Marks on the articles led officers to believe they were part of the stores of the Working Class Union. Elberly is under arrest.

SCHUMANN RESENTS DRAFT.

Singer's Son, an American, but Objects to Fighting Germany.

Special to The New York Times.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 8.—"If I can possibly avoid it, I don't want to fight against Germany," said Ferdinand Schumann, son of the singer Mme. Schumann-Heink, to Governor Campbell today, in the course of a visit to the Executive Chambers.

"All my people and friends are in the German line," said Schumann, "and I simply do not know what to do. I am a naturalized American citizen, and have been selected for the draft."

Governor Campbell informed the young man that he was powerless to intercede for him in the matter.

The Governor said that when Mme. Schumann-Heink was in Phoenix last Winter she told him one of her sons was serving aboard a German submarine.

Ferdinand resented any reference that he was a "slacker," and said that the situation to him was hard to reconcile, especially as he wished to be known as a true American.

OVERSUBSCRIBED A FIFTH.

Every Reserve Bank Exceeded Its Treasury Certificate Allotment.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Oversubscription of the $500,000,000 issue of short-term Treasury certificates of indebtedness, Secretary McAdoo announced today, was $61,525,000, more than 20 per cent. Allotments will be approximately 88 per cent. of subscriptions. Every Federal Reserve Bank, it was announced, exceeded the allotment which tentatively was given to it at the time the issue was announced.

Distribution of the issue among Reserve Bank districts was not announced, but it is understood that the New York district oversubscribed its allotment by a higher percentage than any other.

STATE CAVALRYMEN TO MAN ARTILLERY

Army Reorganization Must Also Provide for Machine Gun and Mortar Batteries.

ENDS REGIMENT PET NAMES

New Status Marked by Unromantic Numerals—Departure Delayed Six Weeks.

In accordance with the tactical reorganization of the army ordered by the War Department, Squadron A and the First and Second Cavalry of the Sixth Division, U. S. A., will probably be made over into field artillery units, according to information obtained yesterday at headquarters. It was pointed out that under the new table of divisional organization, the Sixth Division, while having a surplus of infantry, is decidedly short of field artillery, machine gun detachments and mortar batteries.

Another result of the new orders will be, as headquarters sees it, to set back approximately six weeks the date of departure for the front. It was said that it would take fully that long to thoroughly settle the division to the new adjustment, and that the first month or six weeks at Camp Wadsworth, instead of being devoted to training, would probably be given over to straightening out tangles resulting from the reorganization. Again, it was said, the reapportionment of nine infantry regiments among four units of the same branch will mean the complete obliteration of the "Gallant Seventy-first," "Fighting Sixty-ninth," and the "Terrible Twelfth," each regiment receiving a plain, unromantic numeral.

That the work of readjustment will not begin for some time was indicated by the fact that President Wilson will not send the names of Major General O'Ryan and Brig. Gens. Lester and Wilson to the Senate for confirmation in Federal rank until Aug. 12, the same date that confirmation will be asked for the commissioning of student officers as national army officers. Regular army officers undoubtedly will be assigned as Brigadier Generals to command the First and Second Brigades, their assignment to take effect within a week after the confirmation of General O'Ryan.

In anticipation of the Southward movement, Major Edward Olmsted said yesterday that the Quartermasters Corps was at work figuring out a plan of concentration for the regiments now on guard duty in the State. In cases where the distance is not too great, guard detachments will march to a designated regimental base, where the organization will go into camp to await the word to entrain for this city to participate in the big sendoff parade. If possible, regiments will be encamped at Van Cortlandt Park for several days before departing for Spartanburg.

With Colonel Reginald L. Agnew at their head, the 2,000 men of the Twelfth Infantry were inspected by Lieut. Col. J. Mayhew Wainwright yesterday morning on the South Meadow in Central Park. Though some of the men still wore civilian clothing and many lacked essential equipment, the regimental Quartermaster had found rifles and cartridge belts for every man. General O'Ryan and staff reviewed the regiment after the inspection. Today the Seventh will go through the same routine at 8 o'clock on the Sheep Meadow in the park. The Twenty-second Engineers will be inspected on Friday and the day after the Sixty-ninth will file by.

Orders directing the Fourteenth Infantry of Brooklyn to move to Virginia were countermanded yesterday by the Department of the East. The revised instructions directed the Forty-Seventh Infantry, Colonel Ernest E. Jannicky, commanding, to transfer its headquarters to Richmond, Va., while the Fourteenth remained at its armory in reserve. Early this morning two battalions of the Forty-seventh, about 1,200 men, are scheduled to leave, one battalion for Richmond and the other for Petersburg. The Third battalion will report at Baltimore within three days to await further instructions.

The movement indicates that the Brooklyn troops will be consolidated with regiments from Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia to form another division. The Fourteenth, it was said, will probably proceed to Camp Upton, Yaphank, L. I., to take over the assignment left vacant by the sending away of the Forty-seventh. Though the Fourteenth will do duty guard and military police duty at the National Army cantonment, the regiment will receive a severe course in intensive training so that it later can be assigned to a division, possibly that formed of Pennsylvania troops, which is still short of men.

Acting Chief City Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb yesterday sent a copy of a letter received by him from Henry W. Taft, Chairman of the War Committee of the Bar Association, to all Magistrates announcing that the Bar Association would furnish free counsel to all soldiers arraigned in minor courts. The Magistrates were requested to inform soldier defendents that a telephone call to the Bar Association would bring a lawyer to their aid at once.

The Defendam Association, composed of veterans of Colonel Cornelius Vanderbilt's Twenty-second Engineers, announced last night that it would furnish a khaki handkerchief to every engineer when he leaves for service. The handkerchief will bear the regimental motto, "Defendam," embroidered in the corner.

U. S. RAID ON DRUG SELLERS.

Seven Arrested Charged with Furnishing Narcotics to Soldiers.

Assistant United States District Attorney Edwin M. Stanton, assisted by Federal Agent Richard Yaucey and Lieutenant Strachan and men of the Forty-seventh Regiment, National Guard, made a raid last night upon alleged sellers of narcotics and arrested seven men. Complaints have been frequent that men have been selling drugs to National Guardsmen and men of the army and navy, so the Federal officers donned soldier uniforms when they went out on their hunt for the illicit dealers. Except in one instance the uniforms threw the alleged traders off their guard and the officers had no difficulty in approaching their men.

At White and Moore Streets, Brooklyn, they arrested Harry Weinberg and Thomas Goldman. At York and Greene Streets, Brooklyn, which is near the navy yard, they arrested Nicholas Fennimore. At 116th Street and Lenox Avenue, in Harlem, Arthur Marks and William Anderson were arrested. At 111th Street and Fifth Avenue Sol Meyers was put under arrest. At Canal and Centre Streets Louis Cupero, who was chased by the officers from Hester and Mulberry Streets, was taken into custody.

HELD AS DRAFT RESISTER.

San Francisco Attorney Accused—Ex-Senator Works Denounces It.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—Daniel O'Connell, an attorney, was arrested here late today on a Federal warrant charging resistance of the draft law. The warrant was served while he was addressing a meeting of the "American Conference for Democracy and Terms of Peace." The audience hissed the officer who made the arrest.

Ex-United States Senator Works of Los Angeles arose and said:

"This arrest is a disgrace to the American people and is done for the purpose of intimidating thinking people."

Miss Olive Park, who was a member of the Ford Peace Party, and others present denounced the arrest of O'Connell, who is an active member of the "People's Council of America," under whose auspices the "Conference for Democracy" is being held.

Fourteen other persons are named in the warrant with O'Connell, three of whom have been arrested. O'Connell was released on $10,000 bail to await a hearing next week.

The arrest of O'Connell follows receipt of a letter from John L. McNab, Chairman of a local exemption board, by the United States District Attorney, calling attention to the circulation among draft eligibles of documents which denied the constitutional right of the Government to draft men for military service.

At the opening of the peace conference today Dr. Jordan made a plea for democracy. He said it was not the purpose of the organization to oppose the present psychological state of mind of Germany's enemies. Each agent, working in a neutral country adjoining an Entente country, must record and forward all available information bearing on the morale of the Entente country and such fluctuations.

The correspondent adds that Germany's hopes are concentrated not on the success of the submarine war, but on the probable moral collapse of the Entente allies.

Punish Secret Traffickers in Meat.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 8.—Four of the principal hotels in the Harz Mountains, in Northwest Germany, have been closed by the authorities in connection with clandestine dealings in meat, according to a dispatch received here. The closing of several more hotels and food stores is expected.

GERMANS INCENSED AT LLOYD GEORGE

Call Him "Agitator," "Fanatic," and "Clown" in Replying to Recent Speech.

REJECT RESTORATION PLAN

British Premier "Searching for Compromise," Despite Predictions of Victory, Says Vossische Zeitung.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 8.—Never perhaps has any utterance by an Entente Minister called forth from the German press such varied comments and such immoderate language as the speech of Premier Lloyd George on Saturday last.

The Hamburger Fremdenblatt, in a dozen lines, refers to it as rubbish, an agitator's speech of the lower sort, almost hysterical and full of reckless calumines and misstatements. The Kölnische Volkszeitung, after calling the British Prime Minister a war fanatic and an agitator, thinks that the curses of the whole world "will soon follow to Hades this man of demoniacal energy and humdrum, narrow outlook." The paper declares itself seized with despair "when one reads with what stale jokes he dismisses the collapse of the English offensive in Flanders without in the least degree doing justice to the real situation."

The Frankfurter Zeitung, generally fairly moderate, after calling Lloyd George a circus clown, says that Germany will not have the word restoration dictated to her. "We can only reach its exact meaning," says the Zeitung, "by assuming that restoration at England's command means destruction for us. Nothing in this speech shows the way to peace. Lloyd George talks of victory, with the Russian defeat and the failure of the Flanders offensive staring him in the face."

The Vossische Zeitung thinks that Lloyd George fears the effect of Germany's peace policy on the Entente Powers and on the English people. "He stands up," says the paper, "against the fear that Germany will add a moral triumph to her sea and land victories. The truth is that no country except Germany and her allies have the courage to stand forward as champions of the liberation of Europe. Knowledge of this fact spreads, despite English protests. Indeed, only a short struggle separates us from our end. While Lloyd George again spurs on England and her allies to achieve victory, he is searching for compromise. He sets forth again conditions on which he will negotiate for peace with Germany. Six months ago they were restoration, compensations and guarantees. In the meantime, compensations and guarantees have been struck from the list. He now speaks only of restoration."

The Lokal-Anzeiger thinks that Lloyd George's great fear is that the country will not stand his dictatorship much longer. It calls him senseless and says that "as we are victors in the East and the West," Germany is not concerned about restoration and not afraid to continue the war.

GERMANY NOW STUDIES PSYCHOLOGY OF FOES

Has Agents in Neutral Countries Watching for Signs of Collapse of the Entente.

PARIS, Aug. 8.—Germany's latest institution, La Liberté's correspondent at Berne says, is a moral or psychological bureau with headquarters in Berlin and agencies in all neutral countries. The object of the bureau and the duty of the agents is to catalogue continuously the precise psychological state of each of Germany's enemies. Each agent, working in a neutral country adjoining an Entente country, must record and forward all available information bearing on the morale of the Entente country and such fluctuations.

The correspondent adds that Germany's hopes are concentrated not on the success of the submarine war, but on the probable moral collapse of the Entente allies.

PRISONERS IN GERMANY EXPOSED TO AIR BOMBS

Captors Marched Them Into the Open When French Raiders Were Expected at Karlsruhe.

PARIS, Aug. 8.—The French authorities learn that during the night raids in July, when French airplanes bombarded Treves and Essen, the Germans forced French and English prisoners, both officers and men, interned at Karlsruhe to leave their quarters and remain in the open, where they most probably would be hit in case the raiders reached Karlsruhe.

The men were compelled to remain in these places until all danger had passed.

SPAIN MAY DECLARE A STATE OF SIEGE

Government Ready to Employ Rigorous Measures to Put Down Agitation.

MADRID, Aug. 8.—It is announced in official circles that the Government is preparing to employ the most rigorous measures which may be necessary to put down the impending countrywide agitation. In the case of a general strike it is said that a state of siege will be declared.

The syndicate of railroad employes of Northern Spain issued last night a statement blaming the company and the Government "because of an agreement which they have not performed, to the prejudice of the railroad employes." The syndicate sustains the strike call for Aug. 10, but agrees to enter conferences with the company if the Government will recognize the legality of the strike during the discussions.

HALL'S RIDDLED COAT HERE.

Comrade Brings It as a Souvenir to the Wounded Aviator's Mother.

James Stewart McDonnell, an American aviator, arrived yesterday at an Atlantic port from France, bringing the service coat, with two bullet holes through it, which had been worn by James Norman Hall of Boston when he was wounded in an air battle on the western front. He said that Hall was severely wounded, but would recover. McDonnell brought the coat for Hall's mother, who lives in Boston. He said that Hall was hit while flying over the German lines near St. Quentin when he was attacked by six German machines. After shooting down two of the enemy aircraft, he said that Hall managed to land inside the French lines, bleeding from his wounds and with the marks of seventy-nine shrapnel bullets on various parts of his airplanes.

Another American aviator, McDonnell said, James Ralph Doolittle, had been badly wounded in an aerial combat with four German machines near Arras and was now in the hospital recovering from two wounds in the leg and another in the left eye. He has been cited in British dispatches for the Military Cross.

New Zealand Indorses War.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Aug. 8.—Amid the greatest enthusiasm the New Zealand Parliament today passed a resolution in favor of "carrying on the war until Germany has been vanquished."

Report That U-Boat Warfare Will Aim Solely at Britain

LONDON, Aug. 8.—A Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam says that it is reported from a German source that Germany intends soon to concentrate her submarine activity exclusively against England.

Such a change of policy as is suggested in the Amsterdam dispatch would mean that the German Admiralty would give up its activities in the Mediterranean and other sea regions far afield and direct its efforts to making fully effective the blockade which was proclaimed against the British Isles when the U-boat warfare was begun.

Statistics show that British shipping has been feeling the chief brunt of the submarines' assaults from the beginning, with the other Entente powers suffering less even than some of the neutrals.

COMMITTEE TO STUDY PLANS FOR RULING IRISH

Dublin Convention Reassembles and Unanimously Adopts Plunkett's Suggestion.

DUBLIN, Aug. 8.—The Irish Home Rule Convention reassembled today. Since it was adjourned July 26 a more sanguine feeling has developed that the conference will have good results.

Importance is attached here to the interview which Sir Horace Plunkett, the

The official report of today's meeting says:

"Sir Horace Plunkett, the Chairman, addressed the gathering on the task before it, and on various schemes for governing Ireland already in existence. He then suggested the procedure by which these might be thoroughly sifted and examined and subsequently brought before the convention for discussion.

"This suggestion was considered at some length, and finally it was proposed by the Chairman and seconded by the Bishop of Rapahoe and unanimously resolved that a standing committee not exceeding twenty persons, five to form a quorum, be appointed to consult with the Chairman on general procedure and the exercise of other powers delegated by the convention.

"It was further resolved to reappoint the committee which had to do with the selection of the Chairman to advise the Chairman on the composition of the standing committee. Then convention then adjourned until tomorrow."

Chairman of the convention, had with King George, it being taken to indicate the royal interest in the proceedings.

All the Dublin newspapers today give prominence to a letter from Thomas Sinclair, of Lisbon, a leading Ulster Unionist, strongly favoring a Home Rule settlement including all of Ireland.

BAKER REACHES ENGLAND.

He and Other Red Cross Commissioners to Study Italian Needs.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Lieut. Col. George P. Baker, Jr., Chairman of the Red Cross Commission to Italy, arrived here this afternoon and plunged immediately into his work. He was accompanied by Majors John R. Morrow, Victor Heiser, Thomas W. Huntington, and Nicholas F. Brady. Colonel Baker said to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent:

"We are merely passing through England on our way to Italy. We shall leave London for Italy early next week. There we shall study the Italian situation and determine the scope of the active relief work which it may be desirable for the American Red Cross to undertake. We shall consider especially the establishment of home hospitals, ambulance units, and relief stations in seaport towns. We are provided with funds for immediate relief, if necessary; but the main idea is to study the ground."

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

CAINE EXPLAINS HIS PEACE VIEWS

Favors a Fight to a Finish to Make the World Secure from Future Wars.

BUT NOT TO CRUSH FOES

Repeats Warnings Against Attempts to Make Germany Pay In Full for Crimes.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 9.—Under the heading "Quo Vadis? An Answer to My American Critics," The Daily Chronicle today publishes the following article by Hall Caine:

"THE NEW YORK TIMES, according to Mr. Dilnot's cabled message, appears to have condemned my recent articles as faint-hearted arguments for a world's peace to be based on the status quo. I am distressed and shocked to find such a misconception. Exactly, precisely, and completely opposite was the conclusion I intended to be drawn. I must have stated my case imperfectly, and therefore I ask permission to summarize my argument as briefly as I can.

"First, I intend to say that our old demand for full restitution and complete reparation involves an aim which, both on its material and its spiritual side, is impossible of attainment; that payment by either of the principal belligerents of the whole cost of the war in cash or bills or bonds, however deferred or passed over a long period by any known method of financial arrangement, would have no effect, after a conflict of such frightful cost, than that of economic exhaustion, if not extermination; that it is not to our interest to exterminate our enemies, and that it is a doubtful point in moral law whether it is the right thing to compel an adversary to pay not only for the injury he has done in attacking us, but also for that which we ourselves have done in defeating him.

Annexation a Prelude to More Wars.

"Next I meant to say that a declaration of our intention of punishing our enemy and recouping ourselves by annexing any of his territory, or even of the territory which he calls his, although he may have torn it from us but yesterday, would only have the effect of strengthening his will to war by giving him an excuse for telling his people that they were fighting in self-defense, and at the same time of exposing ourselves, if we succeed, to the certainty of further warfare in the future, to retain what we have taken away.

"Again, I intended to say that a claim for indemnity and annexation, while providing no reparation for the injuries of war that can in any real sense be considered full and complete, is a direct encouragement to the principle of war itself, as carrying the idea that the guilty aggressor can be adequately punished and made to repay. Crime never can be so punished, and he can never be made to pay in full for such wrongs as modern warfare inflicts, and the true friends of the world's peace are those who see and assert this clear and terrible fact.

"Finally, I intended to say that the developments of physical force in modern warfare are already so appalling and threaten to become so horrible in future that there is nothing before the world, if humanity is not to be submerged by its own machinery for destruction, but to exterminate war altogether; that as the Central Power are established upon war, live solely by war, can have no existence apart from war, and must perish when war ends, it has become the sacred if fearful duty of the Allies as free democracies to fight war to a finish, and so wipe out forever the general enemy of freedom and justice. As one of my American friends has said, in a fight with a tiger you cannot stop to stroke his head. War is the tiger, and if Liberty is to live war must die.

"I am not the best judge of whether or not my argument is a fainthearted one, but I would beg the warmest of our friends in America to remember that we in Europe know the sickening sorrows of this war. Are we therefore fainthearted? I think not. We are in this war and mean to stick it out until security has been won; but we have no desire to shout or to flourish the shillelah. Once more we know what the folly of the fight to a finish and so wipe out forever the general enemy of freedom and justice. As one of my American friends has said, in a fight with a tiger you cannot stop to stroke his head. War is the tiger, and if Liberty is to live war must die.

It is a fully equipped banking institution, similar to our London office. It enables us to give direct service and to handle more expeditiously a large volume of business with France.

Propositions regarding foreign business may be made at our office in Paris or at our main office in New York, and definite terms can thus be arranged more quickly than by cable or mail.

American business concerns and individuals having interests abroad will find it to their convenience and advantage to bank with our Paris office. It will be our effort to be useful in every possible way to American citizens traveling abroad and to those with the armies in France.

A few of the many services we owe to France, together with an abstract covering some of her achievements in industry, commerce, and finance, are set forth in a booklet, "France and America", just issued by this company, which will be sent on request.

our own manufacturers and producers. Measures will be taken by the board for the best possible assurance that materials sold at a concession in price for war purposes shall be applied only to war purposes.

In fixing the prices to be paid by the Governments we shall allow a reasonable profit, but shall deny the extortion now exacted for many commodities of prime necessity. We shall pay the just price so admirably defined by the President in his public statement of July 12, as follows:

"'By a just price I mean a price which will sustain the industries concerned in a high state of efficiency, provide a living for those who conduct them, pay the men in them good wages, and make possible expansions of their enterprises which will from time to time become necessary as the stupendous undertakings of this great war develop.'

Just Prices for the People.

"The War Industries Board has not yet had and may not have occasion to deal with the question of prices to be charged the public, but it seems proper in this connection to direct attention again to the following from the President on that subject:

"'We must make the prices to the public the same as the prices to the Government. Prices mean the same thing everywhere now; they mean the efficiency of the nation, whether it is the Government that pays them or not. They mean victory or defeat.

"The war makes enormous drafts upon many raw materials, absolutely necessary to the industrial life of the nation and to the ordinary existence of the people. This has resulted in the bidding up of prices for what is left of many materials of prime necessity in manufacture to a point obviously out of all relation to the cost of production, and involving unconscionable profits on our national resources, and the consequence is that the cost to the public of all the articles in the manufacture of which such materials enter, has reached a level never before known.'

"It is the understanding here that the War Industries Board, and its Central Purchasing Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, which is to determine production costs, the Food Administration, the Shipping Board, which will soon control freight rates and the disposition of practically all the shipping by agreement with the Allies and the Exports Council will be part of the huge piece of machinery to be employed in bringing about an equitable price agreement.

These weapons, skillfully manipulated, it was pointed out would be able to create a situation where producers, who might seek to profit from the war time conditions, would think twice before taking action to defeat the desires of the Government.

FIXING OCEAN RATES.

Shipping Board Takes Up the Problem—Will Form a Subsidiary Body.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Definite action was taken today by the Shipping Board in the direction of fixing ocean freight rates in the transatlantic trade, and as a result American shipping on the seas soon will be taken over by the Government. As an agency to have charge of this important phase of the program it was decided to form a separate organization, to be advised by a traffic expert as yet to be selected. Commissioner Stevens is working out the details of this organization, and may report tomorrow.

Negotiations have been carried on with the allied Governments concerning shipping rates, and neutral nations owning large shipping probably will be called upon to co-operate. The neutral shipping, it was said, now engaged by the United States and its allies, already is controlled effectually by the Exports Council, but the rate-fixing problem has not been settled.

The Shipping Board, it is understood, favors an agreement for all shipping, which will provide for no rate that will permit a fair profit while it puts an end to the present rate charges which President Wilson has characterized as extortionate.

The task of obtaining workmen for the shipbuilding yards was another matter taken up today. Meyer Bloomfield of Boston has been selected as the industrial manager by the Association of Eastern Shipbuilders. He will act in co-operation with the Shipping Board and the Department of Commerce in working out a solution of the problem.

The Shipping Board officials will confer tomorrow with Connop Guthrie, shipping expert of the British Commission, in regard to rate fixing and other international details of the situation.

WANT COAL PRICES FIXED WITHOUT DELAY

Trade Commissioners Scout $3 a Ton Proposal and Advocate Drastic Federal Action.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—With the passage of the Food bill certain members of the Federal Trade Commission are outspoken in their belief that the Government should at the earliest moment take up the coal situation and fix prices.

This recommendation is predicated upon the assertion that a price of $3 a ton for the bituminous coal at the mouth of the mine is unfair to the Government and the consuming public, and that coal operators will make large profits if any such agreement is put into effect.

The fact of the matter is that the Government may exercise the powers conferred on it by the food control legislation unless the operators agree to a price considerably under $3 at the mine. It is understood that governmental agencies already have made it known definitely that they would not pay such a price.

Among those firmest in the position that drastic action should be accomplished without delay is Commissioner Colver. He feels that the coal operators are not meeting the needs of the country on the proper basis.

The powers possessed by the Government in regard to coal are set forth in Section 25 of the Food Control bill. It reads:

"That the President of the United States shall be, and he is hereby authorized and empowered whenever and wherever in his judgment necessary for efficient prosecution of the war, to fix the price of coal and coke, wherever and whenever sold, either by the producer or dealer, to establish rules for the regulation and to regulate the method of production, sale, shipment, distribution, apportionment, or storage thereof among dealers and consumers, domestic or foreign; said authority and power may be exercised by him in each case through the agency of the Federal Trade Commission during the war or for such part of said time as in his judgment may be necessary."

The members of the Federal Trade Commission who are urging this action are willing, however, it was said today, to come to an agreement which will fit in with their ideas of the general price fixing arrangement. They are not convinced that the coal operators will hold out against a favorable agreement, but are determined to act in their power to force the matter if the operators do not meet the situation.

These Commissioners feel that the coal supply is one of the most important angles of a price-fixing program on such as was suggested by today's statement by the War Industries Board. The Federal Trade Commission has made an investigation of the production cost of coal, and it is understood has much information at hand which shows that bituminous coal can be sold at the mouth of the mine, with a fair profit, at a price considerably below the $3 suggested at a meeting of the operators with representatives of the Council of National Defense.

EMBARGO ON STEEL TO CANADA

All Shipments After Aug. 15 Must Have Special Licenses.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The Department of Commerce served notice on Canada today that the embargo on steel needed for shipbuilding would become effective absolutely on Aug. 15, as announced by the President on Aug. 2, and that after Aug. 15 special licenses must be obtained for all iron and steel products leaving this country. Even steel, iron, and steel products for manufacture of ammunition will not be permitted to cross the border except under a license. The ruling follows:

"The attention of shippers to Canada is called to the Presidential instructions given to the press on Aug. 2 concerning shipments of iron and steel products covered by the proclamation of July 9, which instructions supersede all previous regulations. Up to the present, shipments of those iron and steel commodities into Canada have been facilitated through the granting of special licenses issued through the Collectors of the ports. From this time on, special licenses will be required on all shipments of iron and steel products, in accordance with the President's instructions of Aug. 2. Shippers will therefore save themselves annoyance and delay if they will apply for licenses bfore making shipments to Canada, as otherwise such shipments will be held up at the border."

...dertood, be divided into several committees.

That the work of the examining physicians in some of the local exemption districts does not meet the approval of the Federal and State authorities is admitted, and it is probable that before the end of this week several hundred men who have been exempted for alleged physical defects will be ordered to appear for re-examination by other physicians.

Those man who had been declared disqualified for service were re-examined in the State Arsenal yesterday by Dr. Victor C. Pedersen, and Dr. Frederick Smith of the Medical Advisory Board. The re-examination of these men disclosed that none of them was suffering from the ailment named in his exemption paper, or for that matter from any other ailment which would disqualify him for service in the national army. In all three cases the exemption was revoked.

At least twelve cases of attempted bribery of exemption board officials are now under investigation by agents of the Department of Justice. It was said tonight that when every complaint lodged with the Government regarding the enforcement of the draft law was made the subject of immediate investigation. Even information sent in anonymous letters is treated with consideration, and the truth or falsity of the statements determined by the proper Government officials.

Exemption Claims Heard.

Several boards yesterday began hearings on claims of exemption. Board 127, with headquarters in Public School 87, at Amsterdam Avenue and Seventy-seventh Street, heard fifty-eight claimants for exemption. The claims in nineteen instances were denied, and the men ordered listed for service, while those who had filed claims voluntarily withdrew them. Twenty-eight claims were sustained and action in nine other cases postponed until tomorrow.

The first case of a man of draft age who has married since registration day on June 5 and desired exemption was heard by this board. The man is H. J. Nelson, who is employed by an automobile company and earns $30 a week. His wife was a stenographer in the employ of the same firm, and earned $15 a week. The employers of Nelson supported his claim and said that his services were indispensable. The claim was denied.

Alfred Steckler, Jr., son of ex-Supreme Court Justice Steckler, 30 years old and married, filed a claim of exemption after he was passed several days ago. Mr. Steckler appeared yesterday before the board and asked to have the claim cancelled. "I thought the matter over carefully," he said, "and decided that the best thing to do was to waive exemption."

The claim of Robert Stephenson, a medical student, who said that he had a small income from a trust fund, with which he supported his mother, was denied.

John C. Gerowe, 200 West 106th Street, who is 24 years old, and married, asked to be exempted on the ground that he was the sole support of his wife. Mrs. Gerowe's parents are said to be well-to-do, and the board ruled that she could live with them while her husband contributed part of his support with a part of his pay as a soldier. The claim was denied.

Ralph Morris, 25 years old, of 305 West 107th Street, said he was the support of his mother, and that he earned $30 a week. His mother testified that she earned $1.50 a day on her own account. The claim was denied on the ground that the mother was neither infirm nor dependent on her son for support.

Jesse Reynolds Pike, who now lives in Hoboken, asked to be exempted as the support of his wife. He was married on May 12. Mr. Pike said he had an income of $1,500 from shares he owned in a company conducted by his father. He was informed that he would have to serve in the national army.

Another man said that he was the sole support of his aged father. The father is a retired meat dealer and well to do. The man will join the colors. He is James Sterling of 45 West Seventy-first Street.

Others whose claims were denied were Nicos Argeros, 2 West Seventy-second Street; J. H. Wisner, 136 West Seventy-seventh Street; M. Kleeman, 15 West Sixty-seventh Street, and M. Steinhardt, 140 West Seventieth

FRENCH MAKE GAINS ON FLANDERS FRONT

Take German Trenches Northwest of Bixschoote—British in Raids Near Coast.

FOE MAGNIFIES THEM

Berlin Reports Strong Forces Were Engaged There and Germans Repulsed Them.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—To the northwest of Bixschoote the French gained more ground against the Germans during the day, while the British repulsed attempted raids by hostile contingents at several points on their front, according to the official communication issued tonight. Yesterday the British aviators inflicted severe damage on German positions, attacking to a distance of forty miles back of the lines. A heavy rain is again falling in Flanders. The text of the communication follows:

A heavy rain is again falling. Our allies gained further ground during the day northwest of Bixschoote.

Hostile raiding parties were repulsed last night and this morning north of Roeux and in the neighborhood of Oppy.

The enemy's artillery continued to show great activity east of Ypres.

Yesterday, in spite of continuous mist, our airplanes bombed the enemy's railway tracks, sidings, and trains forty miles behind the German lines, causing much damage, derailing one train and blowing up another. Bombs also were dropped the previous night on an enemy ammunition depot. One of our machines is missing.

German artillery last night began an active bombardment of the British front in Belgium to the east and north of Ypres. British troops in the course of the night raided the German trenches near Lombaertzyde (about two miles from Nieuport on the Belgian coast) and returned with some prisoners and a machine gun. The official statement given out by the War Office early today reads:

Parties of our troops successfully raided the enemy's trenches last night near Lombaertzyde and captured a few prisoners and a machine gun.

The enemy's artillery was active during the night to the east and north of Ypres, particularly in the neighborhood of Westhoek and the Ypres-Staden Railway.

BERLIN, Aug. 8, (via London.)—British forces, after artillery bombardment of drum-fire intensity, last night pressed forward from Nieuport, on the coastal sector of the Belgian front, but were driven back after hand-to-hand fighting, it was announced today by the Army Headquarters Staff.

The artillery activity in Flanders, the statement adds, increased during the night to greater intensity.

Repeated strong Entente attacks between Draibank and Frezenberg, northeast of Ypres, were repulsed by the Germans, it is said.

Following is the text of the statement:

Front of Crown Prince Rupprecht: On the battlefront in Flanders the firing activity last evening again increased to greater intensity.

On the coastal sector the English, after drumfire, pressed forward with strong forces from Nieuport in a northerly and northeasterly direction. They were driven back in hand-to-hand fighting.

Between Draibank, northeast of Bixschoote, and Frezenberg the enemy after nightfall launched repeated strong local attacks against our lines. Even here he was repulsed everywhere.

In Artois there was lively firing activity between the La Bassée Canal and the Scarpe River. English reconnoitering thrusts against several sectors on this front failed.

Front of the German Crown Prince: In the course of the evening the artillery activity along the Chemin Des Dames revived.

On the left bank of the Meuse a cleverly executed surprise attack made by Baden storming detachments, which penetrated into the strongly intrenched Caurières Wood, resulted in the capture of a number of prisoners.

Germans Fall on the Aisne.

PARIS, Aug. 8.—Troops of the German Crown Prince last night launched attacks on the French positions east of Vauxaillon and west of the Californie Plateau, in the Aisne region. The early official statement issued by the French War Office says that all the attacks were repulsed. The statement says:

In the entire part of the front where was marked activity of the artillery of both sides over the greater part of the Aisne front. Detachments of the enemy tried to reach our lines to the east of Vauxaillon, and to the west of the Californie Plateau, but they were repulsed by our fire.

North of St. Mihiel, and in Upper Alsace, enemy surprise attacks were repulsed. The night was calm on the rest of the front.

The official statement issued by the War Office tonight reads:

The artillery activity was rather violent in the region of Panthéon and La Royère Farm, as well as on the right bank of the Meuse in the region of the Caurières Wood and in the Douaumont sector.

The Belgian War Office gives out this statement:

During the night the enemy artillery shelled actively part of our communications, firing with the least intensity on our organizations in the first line. The morning was calm except for some shelling before Dixmude. In the afternoon the firing was of little importance.

CAPSULES SIMULATE GUNFIRE.

German Gunners Have Ruse to Hide the Withdrawal of Guns.

PARIS, Aug. 8.—The French War Office announces that the Germans have invented a new ruse to lull their opponents into the belief that 'artillery batteries are still in position for action when actually they have been withdrawn, and by it to prevent untimely advances.

The device consists of a mechanism fitted with half a dozen globular capsules filled with an explosive which is placed on the site of the battery to be or being withdrawn. The capsules explode every thirty-five or forty seconds with a sound exactly like that of a field gun heard from a distance. They are said to fool a listener into thinking that he is still facing artillery.

Irish Poet Killed in Flanders.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Lance Corporal Francis Ledwidge, a peasant poet of Meath, Ireland, was killed on the battlefront in Flanders July 31. He was 26 years old.

RAIDERS' FATE KEPT SECRET

Admiralty Official Withholds News in the Public Interest.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Answering a question to-day in the House of Commons put by Robert P. Houston, Unionist member for the West Toxteth Division of Liverpool, for information regarding the German raider Wolff in the Indian Ocean and the raiders Seeadler, Möwe, Vineta, Puyme and others in the Atlantic, Thomas J. Macnamara, Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty, said the British Admiralty was "not without knowledge of the movements or fate of these vessels."

Mr. Macnamara emphasized the word "fate," but said it was obvious that to disclose what was known or unknown would be valuable to the enemy. It was not considered in the public interest, therefore, to reply more fully.

BAHIA, Brazil, Aug. 8.—Disorders have been caused here by the high cost of living. Two persons were killed and a number wounded in conflicts with the police.

AUSTRIA FEARS ITALY; EXPECTS GREAT DRIVE

Refused Berlin's Request to Transfer Troops to Russian Front, Washington Hears.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—According to official advices received here, Germany expected to put Russia out of the war by an immense offensive that was begun with the drive following the effort of the disorganized Russian military forces to make a show against the enemy.

The plan of the German General Staff called many Austrian divisions from the Italian front to be sent directly to the Galician front, but the Vienna Government decided that it would be inopportune to remove a single division from the Italian theatre, reminding Germany that the system of shifting troops from the Isonzo and the Trentino last year cost Austria severe defeats by the Italians. All that Austria would consent to do was to call to the colors the older classes, who were dispatched to the Russian front.

General Conrad, the Austrian Commander in Chief on the Italian front, has never left that theatre except for one brief visit to Galicia. At the present time the Austrian Army fears an Italian offensive, and is massing all available troops and artillery. Innsbruck is being feverishly fortified and measures are being taken in an attempt to block any possible action by the Italians in the direction of either Trieste or Laibach. General Conrad is personally directing the measures of defense, as the Austrian Staff and Government hold the view that the most serious threat to the Central Empires during the Fall will be from the direction of Italy.

Austria is said in the dispatches to have abated her former practice of supplying troops and materials to Germany on demand, taking the new view that her own most serious menace is the Italian Army, Russia for the moment being disposed of and Germany apparently being able to withstand the attention of the allied armies in the west.

Austria also said also is increasing the number of submarines she is operating in the Adriatic and Mediterranean Seas.

ITALIAN BOMB CAMPS.

Drop Four Tons of High Explosives on Austrian Troop Quarters.

ROME, Aug. 8.—There were lively encounters on the Trentino front yesterday between Austro-Hungarian and Italian patrols, says the report issued by the Italian War Department. Italian air squadrons on Monday and Tuesday dropped four tons of high explosives on the Austrian military hutments in the Chiapovano Valley, causing great destruction. The text of the statement reads:

On the Trentino front yesterday greater activity on the part of our reconnoitring parties led to minor encounters between patrols.

On the Carso our concentrated fire damaged and harassed the enemy and drew his fire. Our batteries answered with accurately directed salvos.

On Monday and yesterday our bombing flights, notwithstanding heavy anti-aircraft fire, dropped four tons of high explosives on the enemy's military hutments in the Chiapovano Valley, causing great destruction. One of our escorting planes was hit by enemy fire, but succeeded in landing within our lines. All the other machines returned safely to their bases.

CAPE TO CAIRO ROAD FACILITATED BY WAR

Conquest of German East Africa Opens Easy Route, with Lateral Branch to Sea.

When the British are ready to complete the Cape to Cairo Railroad they undoubtedly intend to divert, far to the east, the central section of the line between Broken Hill, Rhodesia, and Senaar, on the Blue Nile, a little south of Khartoum. They will thus avoid the great tropical forest in the Belgian Congo and secure solid ground for the track through German East Africa and British East Africa to Senaar, where the last rail will be spiked in the completed route between Cape Town and the Mediterranean. Moreover, the road will form a direct junction with the great Central Railway in German East Africa, completed in 1914, which spans the colony from Dar-es-Salem, its late capital on the Indian Ocean shore, to Lake Tanganyika.

Before the war the British presented this matter to the German authorities, urging strongly that the building of the Cape to Cairo route through German East Africa and British East Africa would greatly help the development of both colonies. Germany replied courteously that the proposition was impracticable as it was not the policy of the German Government to permit foreign railroads to its colonies. This correspondence attracted little notice, but Sir Charles Metcalfe, long connected with the work of Cecil Rhodes as engineer of railroad construction, called attention to it in a paper he sent, two years ago, to the Royal Geographical Society of London.

The Cape to Cairo enterprise was, in fact, confronted by a tremendous difficulty. The only way to carry the railroad north through Belgian and British territory is to stretch it for 400 miles from Stanleyville to the Nile through the densest and least penetrable part of the equatorial forest, where nature wages most effective war against intrusion. Even the most forbidden of these forests will be conquered, some day, because they are very rich in things that men want. It is estimated that the rubber, essences, oils, and other forest products which perish every year in these gloomy solitudes for lack of care or collection, exceed the value of all the industrial enterprises that have, thus far been opened in tropical Africa.

But if it can be avoided, the Cape to Cairo enterprise has no desire to force a way through this tremendous tangle of giant vegetation, the great trees rising to 200 feet, the countless smaller trees, which we would think colossal, almost hidden from view by the growth of mosses and of climbing and twining plants, sapping their vitality; the dense undergrowth and the quaking soil where the feet sink in the rottenness, and fetid odors arise. These are not ideal conditions for railroad building; and leading men in South Africa and England say the way is now opening for the fulfillment of the plan that Germany vetoed.

The Germans in German East Africa have bitterly resisted the assaults of the British and Boers who have driven their remnants into the extreme southeastern corner of the colony, bordering on hostile Portuguese territory.

The proposed divergence of the route through the so-called German East Africa and British East Africa, both among the choicest parts of the continent in their present development and their great potentialities, will add vastly to the usefulness of the realized dream of Cecil Rhodes. The region of the upper Nile will continue to be served by the effective steamboats that, for years, have plied between Gondokoro, far towards the equator, and Khartoum; while the Cape to Cairo route will greatly promote the welfare of the two finest colonies in East Africa.

The white farmers on the high plateau of British East Africa have for some years been exporting the wool of their merinos and their wheat and corn; and their prospects will be still brighter if the great trunk line places them in closer touch with their own continent and the rest of the world.

90 NORWEGIANS DIE IN GALE.

Seven Fishing Vessels Lost Returning from an Arctic Cruise.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Seven Norwegian sailing vessels and ninety men were lost recently in a heavy gale off Greenland, according to a dispatch to the Central News from Christiania.

The vessels were part of a fleet of fifty and were returning from a fishing trip in the Arctic Ocean.

RUSSIANS AGAIN ATTACK IN GALICIA

Capture Two Villages and a Height with More Than 300 Prisoners.

WIN FIGHT IN VOLHYNIA

Retake Positions from Which They Had Been Driven — Fall Back in Rumania.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 8.—Russian troops are taking the offensive in the Chotin region, near the southeastern frontier of Galicia. Yesterday they drove the Austro-German forces from two villages, captured a height, and took more than 300 prisoners and four machine guns, the War Office announced today in the following statement:

In the direction of Vladimir-Volynski, (Volhynia,) after artillery activity and mine-throwing, the enemy attacked our positions in the region of the village of Semeriniki and penetrated part of our trenches. He was driven out, however, by newly arrived reserves, and the situation was restored.

In the direction of Brody, in the region of Baldury, an enemy scouting party showered hand grenades upon the trenches of our barrier guards and occupied them, but a counterattack restored the situation.

To the west of the city of Zbaraj, in the region of the village of Ivachuv, the enemy pressed back our advance post a trifle. In the region of the confluence of the River Zbrouz (Galician front) our troops, developing an energetic offensive, drove out the enemy after severe fighting from the villages of Barychkovcy and Wygoda, and from the heights to the west of the last-named village. We took prisoner seven officers and 300 of the rank and file and also captured four machine guns.

Northwest of the town of Sereth, (Bukowina,) on the front of the villages of Vaskovcy and Oprichani, our troops repulsed several persistent enemy attacks. To the southwest of the town of Sereth the enemy succeeded in penetrating our trenches, but the situation was restored by counter-attacks. There have been fusillades and scouting operations on the rest of the front.

Rumanian Front. — Between the Kimpolung road and Mount Lemunteiu the enemy made a number of attacks, most of which were repulsed. Certain of our gallant regiments, having used up all their cartridges, fought at the point of the bayonet, and with stones which they threw down the mountainside. The enemy succeeded in taking only two of the heights to the west of Dezemkni and to the southwest of Sotchi. On Tuesday night our troops, occupying both sides of the Kimpolung road, retired somewhat to the east.

During the course of Tuesday the enemy continued his persistent attacks between the Fokshani-Marasechti railroad and the River Sereth (Moldavia) and pressed back our troops to the north of Bisigeschi. There have been fusillades on the remainder of the front.

Caucasus Front.—In the region of Hoshaba, forty vests southeast of Van, our troops scattered a band of Kurds. In the region of Diyr, eighty versts to the west of Urm, our detachments of volunteers put to flight bands of Kurds, killing sixty-four of them and taking ten men prisoner.

There have been fusillades on the rest of the front.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The newspaper Novoe Vremya of Petrograd reports that the Russians have evacuated Proskurov, in Podolia, on the Bug, as well as Kamenetz-Podolsk, the capital of Podolia, fifty-three miles south.

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—North of Fokshani, on the Rumanian front, the forces of the Central Powers found that allies extended their success, says the official statement issued today by the German War Office.

The statement reads:

Front of Archduke Joseph.—In the wooded Carpathians Austro-Hungarian regiments, by a storming attack, took possession of several strongly defended mountain summits. South of Casinului and north of the Lepsa Monastery fresh Rumanian attacks were repulsed.

Front of Field Marshal Von Mackensen.—At the point of penetration of enemy lines to the north of Fokshani bitter fighting took place. We extended our success. The Russians and Rumanians carried out strong but fruitile counterattacks. It was ascertained from prisoners that twelve enemy regiments took part in the fight.

POLAND NEAR REVOLT, MARTIAL LAW IN FORCE

Germans, Fearing Organized Uprising, Send Their Women Back to Fatherland.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The situation in Poland is critical, according to information received by the Exchange Telegraph Company correspondent at Lausanne. The Germans are said to be discussing the possibility of an organized revolt on the part of the Poles.

All German women in Poland, including the wives of high military and civil officials, have returned to Germany.

Martial law, the correspondent adds, has been declared at Warsaw and in other Polish centres. Riots, which have been suppressed with much bloodshed in the mining area, have been renewed.

FAKE ASSASSINS REAP RICH HARVEST

Release of Convicts from Siberian Jails Starts Lucrative Swindle in Russia.

PETROGRAD, June 20, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Among the novelties which Russia's revolution has presented to the world is the profession of fake assassin. In other countries only persons suffering from hallucinations claim to have committed murders of which they are innocent. Here, as a result of Nicholas's overthrow, posing as an assassin is a highly profitable if transitory branch of business.

Terrorists released from Siberian convict jails and exile villages are naturally made heroes of and enjoy free train accommodation, free dinners, free clothes and gifts of money. When they reach their native towns they are acclaimed as martyrs of liberty and they receive proposals of marriage from attractive and wealthy young women. As a result of this novel condition, many enterprising citizens whose hands are innocent of anything grimmer than mud or ink are posing as murderers of despotic officials. Women as well as men are entering the profession.

In Minsk has been arrested Catherine Smirnoff, who announced that she had murdered M. Ivanoff, Governor of Odessa, and described with pathos her sufferings in the Arctic wastes of Yakutsk. Smirnoff levied tribute and was presented with bouquets. An unkindly inquirer discovered that Odessa never had a Governor named Ivanoff, and further that Catherine Smirnoff had posed in Odessa as a Sister of Mercy and after swindling seventy charitable citizens had been expelled by the military authorities.

In the same city a healthy young man, who described himself as a soldier volunteer, arrested in the street the invalid ex-Governor, General Pilliu. Before a sympathizing crowd he denounced the General.

"I am the innocent and unhappy man whom you seized," he exclaimed, "the peaceful citizen whom you sent to a convict prison without trial. Our committee has ordered you to be sent to the front; but in view of your bad health we shall show some mercy."

In vain General Pilliu explained that he had never seized any innocent man. He was hauled by the mob to the militia office. His accuser meantime collected money and fled. The Militia at once released the General.

From Siberia, which a Russian proverb described as the "land of credulity," similar cases are reported.

KERENSKY APPEALS TO PEOPLE FOR SUPPORT

This and Rule of Iron Will Alone Save the Nation, He Tells Them.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 8.—Premier Kerensky in an appeal to the people for support for the reconstituted Government declares that only a rule of iron in the present plight, resulting from the military situation, together with ardent and self-sacrificing support by the people, can make for a powerful creative Government with authority to free the land of the enemy and enlist in its work of reconstruction all the living forces of the nation.

The Government, the statement adds, will employ its whole strength in its task, confident that the unconquerable power of the revolution will be utilized for the salvation of Russia's honor, which has been affected by treason, pusillanimity, and treacherous cowardice.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The Special Department of Defense for Russia or the War Cabinet, Reuter's correspondent at Petrograd learns, will be under the control of Premier Kerensky, and will include Foreign Minister Tereschtenko, Vice Premier Nekrasoff, Minister of the Interior Tsereteliff, and M. Savinkoff, the Assistant Minister of War. The Cabinet will meet daily, and will be attended by General Kornilioff, the Commander in Chief, when his duties permit.

The other Ministers will report twice or thrice weekly to Premier Kerensky on the affairs of their departments, and also will meet three times a week for a general conference.

KORNILOFF FIRM FOR WAR.

Tells British Correspondent Its Second Phase Is Just Beginning.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 8.—A dispatch from the headquarters of the Russian Seventh Army to The Times says:

"I saw General Kornilioff yesterday evening, shortly before he proceeded to headquarters to assume the supreme command. His opening words were characteristic of the man and of the situation: 'Three years ago we mobilized our armies. The first phase of the war is over. Today begins the second phase.'

"Not for a single moment does he entertain the possibility that Russia will surrender. The greater the menace, the greater must be her efforts. If Russia were to conclude the dishonorable peace to which traitors have been driving her she would be forever converted into a German colony. The Germans would help themselves to her foodstuffs, control her finances, and treat her as a conquered country. There can be no choice between the evil of war and the evil of surrender, and for this reason a Government capable of continuing the war is imperative. Take the place of the present régime, which has demonstrated its incapacity of initiating a constructive policy or of safeguarding order and discipline.

"The new Government must realize the necessity of inviting its allies to help in reorganizing the railway service for war. If Germany has decided, as all signs indicate, to transfer her main pressure to the Russian front, it is hopeless to rely on the methods that availed against the inferior troops of Austria.

"The dream of universal peace and brotherhood indulged in by Soviet has only subserved the plans of Lenine and other traitors. Russia is full of men who represent splendid fighting material. There are 10,000,000 already enrolled, but scarcely trained. They were too busy attending meetings to attend to drill. These millions British and French officers must help, as they have helped the Serbians, Rumanians, Greeks, and Americans."

KAISERS INVOKE GOD'S AID.

Exchange Joyful Messages on Reoccupation of Bukowina.

VIENNA, Aug. 8, (via Copenhagen.)—Emperor Charles of Austria has sent from Czernowitz, the capital of Bukowina, recently captured by the Austro-German forces, a message to the German Emperor congratulating him on the success of the "brave troops which, with the aid of the Almighty," effected the deliverance of the Austrian crownland of Bukowina. The Austrian Emperor added: "May the Lord continue to aid the faithful co-operation in the future with the fullness of His blessings."

Emperor William replied that the joy of the people of Bukowina would be echoed in Germany, and he added his prayers that God would help the Teutonic allied troops in the future.

General von Koevess, who commanded the Austrian forces in Bukowina, has been appointed a Field Marshal by Emperor Charles.

DROWNED FOUR AMERICANS.

U-Boat Attack on Belgian Prince Described by a Survivor.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Four Americans were lost on the British steamer Belgian Prince, which was sunk July 31 by a German submarine. One American is among the survivors.

The Americans who lost their lives were William Crissy, or Hughes, 144 East Second Street, Philadelphia; James Shaw, Detroit; Thomas Gilmore, 37 Globe Street, Merrick, Mass.; Benjamin Cain, negro, Norfolk, Va.

The sole American survivor is William Snell, a negro from Jacksonville, Fla. The American Consul at a British port today heard from his lips the story of the murder of the crew.

Thirty-eight of the crew of the Belgian Prince were drowned and three others were rescued by a patrol boat and taken to a British port. The survivors say the Germans shelled the vessel, after which the commander ordered the crew to take to the boats and go alongside the submarine.

According to the survivors, the Germans removed the lifebelts and clothing from all the crew except eight, smashed the lifeboats with axes, then re-entered the submarine and closed the hatches, leaving the men on deck. After traveling on the surface for several miles the U-boat submerged.

Two Trainloads Reach Switzerland in Starving Condition.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The Daily Mail's Berne correspondent says that two trains conveying American refugees from Jerusalem and other places in Turkish territory have arrived in Switzerland, according to the New Zurich Gazette.

"These aged men, women and children have been more than eight weeks on the way without an opportunity to change clothes or wash for days," says the dispatch. "For days at times they got no food and arrived in a serious condition.

"Others travelers who have just returned from Turkey say the economic and food situation there is much worse than in Germany."

ATHENS, Aug. 8.—Official advices from Chios say the Turks have bombarded the island from Tchesme, a seaport of Asia Minor forty miles from Smyrna, sinking four sailing vessels and slightly damaging the town and the neighborhood.

WE CAN DEPEND ON RUSSIA, ROOT SAYS

of Russia, Mr. Root said, already has been indicated. What was needed are moral support, railway materials, money, and expert help in the development of industries.

Evidently Mr. Root had no fear of repudiation by Russia of her financial obligations, for he called attention to the fact that, so far as Russian currency was concerned at present, it was in no worse condition than was the paper money of the Federal Government in the United States during the civil war.

Major Stanley Washburn said:

"We need have no fear of Russia's part in this war, save as it concerns a separate peace. Unless she makes one, Russia will do her share. And as long as the present Government stands, there will be no separate peace.

"The military outlook, from a geographical standpoint, now is not good, perhaps; but this should be a minor consideration in deciding whether Russia will go through the war to the end. It is the elemental character of the Russians that must be considered.

"They are essentially a people of great fortitude and bravery. In the face of the greatest reverses they have come back in the past, and there is every reason to believe that they will do it again.

"People in this country say Russia is through, that her troops are retreating, and that she cannot be counted upon to do her bit. I deny such a statement most emphatically.

"Consider for a moment that since the beginning of this war Russia has lost 22,000,000 people, seven million in battle and fifteen million refugees. Yet she fights on. That is not the attitude of a people about ready to retire from the war. Remember that the nearer home the Russians get the farther away from the base are the Germans. A people that are not going to quit, in my opinion, would have some advantages, even if they were driven back to the gates of Petrograd."

According to Major Washburn, the German Government has spent approximately forty-eight millions of rubles for publicity in Russia.

Russell Pleads for Unity.

Charles Edward Russell, who recently withdrew from the Socialist Party in this country, declared vigorously that the chief duty of the United States was to convince the Russian people that the United States was in the war to the finish.

"I cannot emphasize too strongly," Mr. Russell said, "that this country should present a united front. The Russian people are not united at the present time, but they are in such a frame of mind that they easily can be united if the American people only will convince them that this nation stands solidly behind its allies in this war and will not falter.

"The newspapers of the United States have a great duty to perform in presenting the situation in this country as it really is. Talk of peace at this time and arguments against sending our boys to France is utter rot. We must go through this war to the end and our citizens might as well make up their minds to that effect. Slacker, peace and home grabber talk have no place in this situation at present.

"I am greatly encouraged by conditions in Russia. They are becoming better all the time. Even during the four weeks that I was in Petrograd I noticed a great change. I virtually all that time with the Workmen's Council, which is really the Government of Russia, and I know that the people are gradually getting behind the Government more strongly each day. Of course, they are a sentimental and peculiar people, but they are anxious to make a fight for the right, and if we will do our share they certainly will do theirs. The whole question of the future of Russia now lies with the United States."

James Duncan, who represented labor on the commission, expressed the opinion that development of railroad facilities was the greatest problem now facing the Russian people. Conditions in that line, he pointed out, would be all if the transportation problem were solved.

"The outlook for the new republic is bright," he said. "The people are pleased that the United States has gotten into the war, and its entrance has had a wonderful effect on their morale. All they need is better transportation facilities to move troops, munitions, &c. They have plenty of munitions on hand, and if they can solve the railroad problem they will fight like devils."

Sound at Heart, Says Scott.

General Scott brought back to Washington the message that "Russia is sound at heart." He conferred immediately upon arrival with the Secretary of War and the Acting Chief of Staff, Major Gen. Bliss.

General Scott could not discuss the political aspects of the mission's work in Russia, but he said:

"A people that had been held down for years was suddenly told it was free to do as it pleased. There was an orgy of liberty, but now the nation is settling down. Every day shows a little improvement. Russia is sound at heart."

When General Scott and the other American commissioners left Russia the new offensive against the Teutons was in full swing. General Scott and some of his party were hailed as mascots of the new Russia and watched the inception of the offensive movement. As the Americans sailed they were told the Russians had swept the Austro-German army back for fifteen miles on a wide front and had captured 35,000 prisoners and 100 guns.

General Scott praised the work of the Russian officers and soldiers in the June offensive. He was impressed particularly with the performance of the artillery. In the hidden trench of the corps commander, the Americans watched the fighting along five miles of battle line. Such an opportunity, General Scott said, might not come to military observers in years.

When General Scott and his companions arrived at Tarnopol an Austrian airplane hovered over the town on a bomb-dropping expedition. The Russian anti-aircraft guns were vainly endeavoring to bring down the Austrian aviators. It was here the Americans saw heavy artillery fire for the first time, for the attack on the enemy positions began early the next day. A farmhouse in the Austrian lines was the objective of the attack.

As the fighting progressed the Americans refused to stay in the corps commanders' tent because of the fear they would be in the way. They went out into a wheat field, where the post of the brigade commander was situated, and from this point they watched the heavy fighting.

At a given moment the Russian infantry went "over the top" toward the enemy. The storm of shells which had been dropping upon the Austrian positions was raised. The Russians swept forward and into the Austrian lines. More than 3,000 prisoners surrendered at the first rush.

While the Americans watched the fighting they received a message from the brigade commander that the enemy was getting his range. He suggested the Americans withdraw from a position of danger, and General Scott took up another post of observation. It was necessary, the Russians said, for the Americans to observe great caution in approaching the post, not only for their own protection, but that the enemy might not be advised of the whereabouts of the "brain centre" of the opposing army.

Few Signs of Impending Battle.

At that time, General Scott said, there were few signs of warfare about. The guns were hidden, and while observation balloons and airplanes were up there was little to indicate the approach of a terrific battle. In a village a little to the rear, children were playing in the streets and peasants were cultivating the fields.

The American officers were conducted at first to a bombproof trench and spread before them were the Austrian and Russian lines. As they looked the crash of a shell came from a hidden gun at the edge of the village. Another shell camef rom a hidden gun in a grain field, and so on. Hit after hit of the Russian gunfire was registered while the visitors looked on.

After the advance, General Scott's party inspected the guns. The commander of one four-gun battery told him he had fired 800 shots between the hours of 9 and 11 A. M. That one battery, it was explained, had fired more than $30,000 worth of shells in two hours.

General Scott found that the embassy at Petrograd had been besieged by many young Russians eager to obtain commissions in the American army. It was impossible to comply with such requests, as the applicants did not know the English language and were unacquainted with the military system of this country. German propaganda is blamed for much of the mutiny in the Russian Army, and the eagerness of some Russians to serve under the American flag may be attributed to the fact that the Russian army organizations had been controlled by soldiers' committees since the revolution.

SAYS WE WILL SEND TROOPS TO RUSSIA

Statement Made by Senator Lewis During Debate—Baker Refuses to Discuss It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Secretary Baker declined tonight to deny or affirm the statement made in the Senate today by Senator Lewis to the effect that American troops would be sent to Russia and Italy. When the attention of the Secretary of War was called to the statement, he replied:

"I have no comment to make."

Asked whether, independent of what the Senator had said, it was contemplated that American soldiers be sent to Russia, the Secretary rejoined:

"That would be commenting on what the Senator is reported to have said."

Senator Lewis, during the debate on the Food bill, said:

"The next legions of our men to go forth will be to Russia, to support the loyal Russian armies now fighting under the principles of our making. To these shattered but struggling people we must go with food and supplies, and also with our men."

JAMES STILLMAN SAW RED CROSS AT FRONT

Accomplishing Much in War Zone, and Complete Organization Is Needed, He Says.

James Stillman, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the National City Bank and Chairman of the Board of Directors of the American Red Cross and advisory counsel, who returned yesterday from a visit to the European accomplishing much good work in the field and that it was constantly enlarging the scope of its endeavors.

"The Red Cross Society has a fine organization," he continued, "and that is just what is needed. The officials have shown that they can get all the money they need, but it must be unwar zone, said that the society had been derstood that more money will be needed as long as this war lasts. Organization is the paramount thing and all the smaller organizations that are doing such good work should come directly into the Red Cross and each help the other."

Mr. Stillman added that the American people do not realize the immensity of the task before them, and spoke of the French spirit shown in the battlefield and in the cities of France.

"They will never be beaten," he continued; "such superb gallantry and esprit de corps can never be crushed, but France must take counsel from those who have borne the brunt of the fighting."

William S. Dolliva, European manager of the American Express Company, who has been doing Red Cross work in France, arrived yesterday. He was injured behind the lines recently by being knocked down by a motor cycle scout at night.

ASTOR HONORS IN QUESTION

London Paper Cites Them as Proof of House of Lords Charges.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The newspapers express gratitude to Lord Selborne for raising in the House of Lords the question of the bestowal of honors.

The Times says that the existence of the scandal is notorious, that it has had a tendency to increase "within quite recent years," and that this furtive and illicit traffic does injury to the prestige of the Crown and spreads demoralization through English political and social life.

The Daily News says:

"Quite recently public interest was strongly aroused—but never, so far as we know, gratified—in the circumstances under which Lord Astor, who became a peer only last year, developed into a viscount within eighteen months; but cases more or less analogous, in spite of all yesterday's solemn disclaimers, leap at once to mind. On this grand scale they may be few, but they have been known for years."

The Morning Post says:

"We challenge both parties to deny that honors have been given to and large sums received from naturalized foreigners. Are we to believe that these plutocratic strangers enter our public life for the good of the nation, and that they lavish their wealth to support the institutions of this country?"

FUSIONISTS CERTAIN CROPSEY WILL RUN

Supreme Court Justice Expected to Announce Candidacy When He Receives Petitions.

BIG FIGHT IN BROOKLYN

Demand for Withdrawal of Mayor Mitchel Expected If He Is Defeated in Primaries.

While Justice James C. Cropsey of Brooklyn maintained a profound silence yesterday regarding what action he is to take in the municipal campaign, there were many indications that he would announce today his intention to enter the Republican primaries for the Mayoralty nomination against Mayor Mitchel. Mr. Cropsey was at his chambers most of the day, but to all inquirers as to his future actions he refused to say a word.

At 11 o'clock this morning the petitions from citizens urging the Brooklyn jurist to enter the Mayoralty race gathered by Jacob A. Livingston, Republican leader of Kings County, will be presented to Mr. Cropsey by John T. McGovern, Independent Democrat. The petitions are said to be about 50,000 in number, and as soon as he had had time to look them over it is expected that Justice Cropsey will pronounce the word that will make him a candidate against the present Mayor. It was said last night that Justice Cropsey has been waiting only for the receipt of the petitions before announcing his candidacy.

The Supreme Committee of 250 is thoroughly satisfied that Justice Cropsey intends to dispute the Republican nomination with Mayor Mitchel, and working on this theory the leaders have already prepared plans to carry the fight into Mr. Cropsey's own stronghold. The leaders realize that Mr. Cropsey is stronger with the Republican organization in Brooklyn than in any other part of the city, and it is there that the primary fight will be the hottest. They figure that Manhattan and the Bronx Republicans will be loyal to the Mitchel ticket, and that while there may be some defection in Queens and Richmond, the hardest fight will have to be made in Mr. Cropsey's home borough.

Feel Sure That Cropsey Will Run.

The scheduled second conference between Justice Cropsey and the Fusion committeemen headed by William Hamlin Childs, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Fusion Committee, did not take place yesterday. It was said that Mr. Childs was thoroughly convinced as a result of his conference with Mr. Cropsey on Tuesday that the latter had made up his mind to run, and that it would be useless and a strategic mistake to try and bring more pressure to bear on him.

Jacob A. Livingston was just as reticent as Mr. Cropsey regarding the prospects of his candidate entering the race. It was learned, however, that he has told his friends that he is absolutely sure that Mr. Cropsey will make a fight for the nomination. It was said that even should Mr. Cropsey announce his candidacy, he would not resign from the Supreme Court Bench immediately, as he has a number of important decisions to write.

The Fusion leaders have no intention of giving up the fight to elect Mayor Mitchel should he be defeated by Justice Cropsey in the Republican primaries. The Mayor, as well as the other candidates on the Fusion ticket, have pledged themselves to remain in the race until election day.

It was said yesterday that Mr. Cropsey takes the viewpoint that the loser in the primaries should withdraw. He is said to be willing to do this should he run and lose, and expects Mayor Mitchel to do the same should he be whipped. The Mayor refused to make any comment upon the situation.

Will you accept the result of the primary election contest between yourself and Justice Cropsey, or will you remain a candidate for Mayor in the general election, regardless of the verdict of the primary?" the Mayor was asked.

"I am in the hands of the Fusion Committee of 1917," the Mayor replied. "I am not running because I wanted to, but because the committee desired that I should. Therefore I am in the hands of the committee."

Tammany Watching Cropsey.

Indications yesterday were that Tammany is waiting for word as to Justice Cropsey's intentions before it puts a candidate in the field. At the Democratic Fusion Committee headquarters at 50 East Forty-second Street, there was an open discussion of candidates, but it was announced that no decision would be reached until next Monday. There will be open hearings on candidates again tonight and on Friday, and the Executive Committee will meet on Saturday to frame a report to the full committee on Monday. Names of half a dozen candidates were placed before the committee last night. Delegates and representatives of different organizations spoke in behalf of William H. Ellison, County Judge John F. Hylan of Brooklyn, Frank Moss, William R. Hearst, William P. Burr, and Sheriff Alfred E. Smith.

A committee of twenty men, representing the Real Estate and Business Men's Association, appeared before the Business Men's League at 50 East Forty-second Street and, after presenting resolutions condemning the Mitchel administration, asked the League to indorse the candidacy of General Henry De Witt Hamilton for Mayor. Joseph Yeska, Chairman of the league, said that no action would be taken on the selection of the league's candidate until next Monday evening at least.

Telegraph and telephone wires leading out of New York City in all directions were seriously affected shortly after midnight by "earth currents," as telegraphers call them. For more than two hours a majority of them were out of commission.

The disturbance began soon after 11 o'clock, affecting wires between New York and Atlanta. Later it was felt on all wires between New York, Buffalo and Pittsburgh, and even as far west as Chicago. Lines to Boston and the cable station at North Sydney, N. S., ceased to work.

The most serious disturbance was from 1:11 A. M. to 1:45 A. M., when the wires cleared for a few minutes

HINTS CORRUPTION AT FOOD HEARING

Mrs. Rose's Remark About Middlemen's Albany Investments Caused an Uproar.

SENATOR BROWN PROTESTS

And Offensive Statement Is Withdrawn—New York Women Attack Committee's Food Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 8.—After two crowded sessions today, at which its Food Control bill was attacked by practically every speaker as ineffective, the Joint Committee on War Measures of the Senate and Assembly closed its hearings tonight. The committee will hold an executive session at noon tomorrow, when the bill is to be amended.

Elon R. Brown, temporary President and Republican leader of the Senate, and Thaddeus C. Sweet, Speaker of the Assembly, both said tonight that they had no program beyond the meeting of the War Committee tomorrow to amend the bill. There appears not the slightest prospect that final action on the bill will come his week, for it is not likely that Governor Whitman, who is at odds with the War Committee on food regulation, would grant the necessary emergency message.

Probable Amendments.

Senate Leader Brown said he was in no position to state how far-reaching the amendments to the Committee bill would be. From what developed at the hearing today it would appear, however, that these amendments are assured:

1.—The bill will be changed so as to make possible the delegation of the powers and functions of the Federal food administrator within this State to one or all members of the proposed State Food Control Commission. With this power the commission would be enabled to seize food supplies in cold storage warehouses to prevent hoarding, undertaken to boost prices.

2.—In section 11 of the bill, where it is provided that "any municipality in this State may, in case of famine or when deprivation of necessaries for any part of its inhabitants creates an emergency therefor, purchase food with municipal funds or municipal credit and sell the same to its inhabitants," the word "famine" will be eliminated and provision made for a more discretionary exercise of power.

3.—In section 9 the word "unfair," as used in relation to practices detrimental to the public, will be changed to "evil" in response to a demand from consumers who appeared before the War Committee at its hearings on the bill.

The opposition to the committee bill today came from speakers from New York City, of whom a majority were women. One of these, Dr. Mary Deming Rose, representing the New York City Food Commission and the Women's Medical Society, created an uproar by a personal attack on Senate Leader Brown and the War Committee. She later apologized and asked that the remarks that had given offense be stricken from the record.

Middlemen's Investments.

"It seems to me," said Dr. Rose, "that this bill is worthless as a weapon against extortions. It has the hearty indorsement of the middlemen and the food pirates. It provides for no action until famine is at hand, whereas it should provide prevention.

"We wonder if Senator Brown has worked on this bill with the vital interest in our welfare that ought to inspire him in his public duties. He says that the middleman has a lot of money invested in his business, and for this reason should be protected. We wonder whether the middleman has not a lot of money invested here at Albany."

"You do not want to insult the committee?" asked Senator Brown, who presided. Mrs. Rose said she had received the impression from persons with whom she had "rubbed shoulders" that the middlemen exercised an undue influence at Albany.

"Did any person or group of persons suggest this attack to you, and have you any ground for your suspicions?" asked Senator Robinson.

"We do not suspect; we just wonder," Mrs. Rose faltered. "We wondered why you did not pass a food bill at your regular session."

"Don't you know," asked Senator Robinson, "that it was the intent of the Senate to enact such legislation at the regular session, and that the Governor practically forced us to adjourn without taking action?"

"I regret exceedingly that you, apparently a woman of intelligence and foresight, should appear here without any evidence whatsoever and suggest that this body has been influenced improperly in its action on food legislation," broke in Senator Brown. "If you have any evidence to warrant such a statement as you have made it is your duty to furnish it to us and publish it."

Dr. Rose was then permitted to continue her argument. After she had finished, Senator Brown said:

"The Chairman wants to announce that the only reason this woman was granted a further hearing after her insult to the committee was that she was a woman and not a man."

This rebuke did not seem to worry Mrs. Rose. But after Assemblyman McElligott of New York had reasoned with her, he announced that she had a statement to make.

"I made my statement before the committee, for which there was no justification, without careful thought and judgment," said Dr. Rose. "I wish now to have it stricken from the record and to apologize to the committee."

"The apology is accepted," said Senator Brown dryly.

WARNS FOOD GAMBLERS.

Whitman Will Resist Obstruction Such as Federal Bill Met.

SODUS, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Governor Whitman, in an address before the State Fruit Growers' Association here late today, made his first public appeal for support of his State food control program. He outlined his views of the legislation he wishes to see enacted at the present extraordinary session of the Legislature, announced that he had no intention of injuring the individual producers, but was only after "unscrupulous speculators and gamblers," and answered some of the critics of his position, both within and without the Legislature.

The Governor charged that the misapprehension in the minds of the upState farmers regarding his food control aims "is due to the work of unscrupulous and greedy food gamblers, who have spared neither time nor money in doing all that they could by every means, fair or unfair, to thwart any attempt to pass proper food legislation both at Washington and Albany.

"They have been successful," the Governor continued, "in blocking food legislation in Washington for 120 days and I do not intend, if I can prevent it, that they shall succeed in delaying it that long in the State of New York."

The Governor announced for the first time his reason for wishing to appoint the three proposed Food Commissioners. The appointing power was denied him in the legislative War Committee's bill, which named Theodore Roosevelt, who since has declined to serve; James W. Wadsworth, Sr., and Morgan J. O'Brien. He wished to appoint as the State Commissioners, he said, three members of the proposed State Farms and Markets Council, authorized by the Wicks farms and products law passed at the regular legislative session. This council has not been named yet. In this connection the Governor promised that one of the three Food Commissioners would be a practical farmer.

SENATE PASSES FOOD CONTROL BILL

ginia; Thomas, Colorado; Tillman, South Carolina; Townshend, Michigan; Walsh, Montana; Watson, Indiana—31.

Present and not voting—Sherman, Illinois, and Gore, Oklahoma.

Absentees for the Bill.

Senators speaking for the absentees announced that, if present, affirmative votes would be cast by Freylinghuysen, Gallinger, Gerry, Goff, Hughes, Johnson of South Dakota, Lodge, McLean, Ransdell, Smith of Michigan, Tillman, Townsend, and Watson.

The vote by which the bill was passed in the Senate on July 21, before it went to conference, was 81 to 6. The Senators voting against it at that time were Reed and Hardwick, Democrats, and Penrose, Sutherland, Sherman, and France, Republicans.

Immediately after the Food Administration bill was passed, Senator Gore moved to bring up the Food Survey bill, passed by the Senate more than two months ago but side-tracked for the Food Control measure. To the apparent surprise of Senator Gore, a motion of his to adopt the conference report was carried by a viva voce vote.

The Food Survey bill provides for an investigation by the President, through agencies to be designated by him, of the supply, consumption, cost, prices, and distribution of all food products, fuels and agricultural implements, so as to devise means to insure a steady flow to the market. It authorizes the President, in time of exigency, to purchase foods, fertilizer, and agricultural implements and sell them to producers, so as to stimulate production. This bill also needs the signatures of the Speaker of the House and President of the Senate before going to the President. It will work collaterally with the Food Administration bill.

In his appeal to the Senate to pass the Administration Food bill, Senator Lewis alluded to hints made in the Senate debate that Senators were standing out against the bill through unpatriotic motives, and went on:

Wrong, but Not Traitorous.

"Senators, I beseech you that never again shall any Senator impeach another Senator as traitorous or unAmerican. There are no such in this membership. If there were we would drive them from this floor.

"Certain Senators oppose the Administration and certain measures. They may be wrong, but it is their constitutional right. We are driving them forever from us if we once make them feel that to come back they will be regarded as driven through fear of the effect of the charge of treason. You will cause revolt azainst us among the people those Senators represent by accusing them of disloyalty in that they choose their voice through traitorous source.

"One greater word to you: You are preparing to care for a world. No longer is it only America and France to which your food must go to sustain American armies. Russia is before us for all that its severe facts mean. Italy in its condition confronting the hordes of Austria. The next legions of our men to go forth will be to Russia, to support loyal Russian arms now fighting under the principles of our making. To these shattered but struggling people we must go with food and supplies and also with our men. To Italy must go our soldiers, our munitions and our every support.

"The whole cause of new Russia and awakened Italy, aroused Greece and revivified Britain and France is ours. All now is the cause of America. Will we fail them through error of judgment in this hour? We reply that no interests at home shall defeat unity against foes abroad."

INNOVATION
Wardrobe Trunks
$25

Lack of complications, not compliments, make the Innovation the most favored of all the wardrobe trunks manufactured in America. The Innovation is—

"The trunk you will like better at the journey's end."
"The wardrobe trunk that likes to travel."
"The ideal traveling companion."
"The pal of the army officer, the business man and the tourist."

Getting at your belongings when they're in an Innovation Wardrobe Trunk is as simple as getting at them when they're locked in a chifforobe in your home.

The $25 Trunk Strikes A Happy Medium

It is of regulation size. Excess-baggage-proof. Body is of the finest veneer lumber. Riveted, not nailed, and trimmed as well as reinforced with cold rolled steel hardware.

It has a bulge top, so that the expressman cannot stand it on the wrong end. (It is anything but pleasant to "try" to open a Wardrobe Trunk at the top, after the trunk has been standing upside down—both for the task of getting it open and the sorry sight it presents after the trunk has been opened.) The Innovation doesn't open at the top, nor can it stand on its top.

CAUTION

We hereby warn the public against "fake stories" concerning the ships of this Company.

One of these stories represented the steamer "Kristianiafjord" as having 15,000 tons of copper concealed in her hold.

The falsity of that statement could have been ascertained without difficulty had the person or persons who circulated it made even the slightest effort to verify the "story."

Lurid yarns may hold fascination for newspaper reporters and editors, but when such yarns contain serious reflection upon the integrity of a steamship company and its agents, manifestly it is wise that prompt denial of them be made.

In this connection we think it is important that we announce the fact we have demanded retractions of the false "story" about the "Kristianiafjord" from a news association that purveyed it and from the newspapers that published it.

BROTHER DEFENDS DE SAULLES' HONOR

WIFE'S MONEY NOT MISUSED

Prisoner, He Says, Agreed to the Division of Their Boy's Custody.

MAY LET HER SEE HER LAD

Uncle Promises to Do What He Thinks Father Would Have Done —Great Crowds at Funeral.

After the funeral yesterday of John Longer De Saulles, who was killed by his wife at Westbury, L. I., on last Friday night, a statement in defense of the dead man's memory was given out by his brother, Charles A. H. De Saulles of Denver. Mr. De Saulles added that he had engaged George Gordon Battle to investigate the charges against his brother and vindicate his name. Mr. Battle will not assist in prosecuting Mrs. De Saulles.

Charles De Saulles, who was himself a noted football player at Yale and a devoted brother, was in a small town several miles from Denver when he saw a small dispatch in a local paper telling him of his brother's death. He started at once for New York, and on the train read newspaper accounts of the story of Mrs. De Saulles of the wrongs which she said she had suffered at the hands of her former husband.

Mr. De Saulles was shaking with indignation when he gave out copies of his statement last evening in his late brother's real estate office at 50 East Forty-second Street. After denouncing the attack on his brother as "grossly and incredibly false" and making a bitter personal attack on Henry A. Uterhart, counsel for Mrs. De Saulles, the statement says:

I should greatly prefer to say nothing in this matter and to await the proper processes of the courts, which will in good time disclose all the facts and vindicate the good name of my brother. But Mr. Uterhart's extraordinary conduct in continuing to make these charges renders it necessary for me, in justice to the memory of my brother, to state very briefly some of the salient facts. Mr. Uterhart has stated that the decision of the Supreme Court of this State, giving the custody of my nephew, little Jack De Saulles, to his mother for seven and to his father for five months each year, was a surprise and a disappointment to Mrs. Blanca De Saulles. The fact is that this division of custody was pursuant to a written stipulation, signed by Mrs. De Saulles and her attorney and approved by the Referee who heard the case, and by Justice Finch of the Supreme Court, who granted the decree. Furthermore, it was expressly agreed by letters between my brother and his wife that she should have the boy in July and he should have him in August. And she expressed herself in her letters as perfectly satisfied with this arrangement. So that there can be no shadow of pretext that my brother did not have every right, legal and moral, to the custody of the boy in August.

Also, it has been stated that my brother misused a part of his wife's fortune. This charge is entirely without foundation. My brother not only did not misuse any of her private funds, but was most generous in his financial dealings with her, spending large sums to gratify her expensive tastes and to pay her debts. As to their married life, I shall not follow the example of Mr. Uterhart. I shall make no charges or recriminations, but I shall say that my brother was a devoted and loving husband in their earlier days of their married life, and that it is the opinion of her friends, as well as of his, that the change in their marital relations was due to her conduct and her treatment of him.

I have it in writing over her own signature that their domestic differences were chiefly due to her own fault. It is on this that her friends continued to like and respect my brother after the divorce proceedings. I can mention no better illustration than the fact that the Ambassador from Chile, an old friend of Mrs. De Saulles and her family, had dinner with my brother only a few days before the tragedy.

Nor do I believe that her act was caused by an overpowering affection for the boy. She had agreed to a division of custody and even when she had him in her charge she did not spend all her time with him by any means. During the divorce proceedings she went abroad for several months, leaving the boy in this country. And the fact that she shot his father in the back, firing five shots in the presence of the little boy, my aged father, and my sister, seems to me to indicate that the welfare of the boy was not in her mind at the time. What more dreadful heritage could she have bequeathed him than that memory? The cold deliberation of her act; her statement immediately after the shooting: "Now send for a policeman," and her whole conduct seem to show a mind moved by cold fury and not by sudden anger.

But all these things will transpire in due time. I do not wish to bandy recriminations, but I must protect my brother's name. He was not free from fault, but he was always generous and kindly in his treatment of her. He was loved by hosts of friends, and his memory will always be dear to them. I hope that the rage which caused his death will cease to pursue him in his grave, and that it will not be necessary for me as his brother again to defend his memory.

To this Mr. Uterhart made the following reply:

With respect to the extraordinary statement of Mr. De Saulles, I will only say, so far as it concerns myself, that one of the most ancient devices known to the law is contained in the rule, "When you have no case, abuse the opposing counsel." With respect to my position in this case, Mr. De Saulles may rest assured that I am the attorney for Mrs. Blanca De Saulles, and if he has any doubt on the subject it will be dissipated before he is through with the matter. I have made no statement which I am not prepared to prove, and have only performed my duty to my client in giving to the public the causes leading up to the tragedy as stated by her to me.

Mr. De Saulles glosses over as a matter of no importance the undisputed fact that it has been judicially determined that John De Saulles was an unfaithful husband and that his wife was granted an absolute divorce in this State upon the ground of his infidelity. If this constitutes Mr. De Saulles's conception of "devoted and loving husband," he is welcome to his opinion.

The most important of the charges of Mrs. De Saulles against her former husband were, in part, that he married her for her money, grew cold toward her when her fortune did not come up to his expectation, got $47,000 of her fortune of $100,000 by deceptions, became unfaithful early in their married life, took women companions into their apartment, and took the boy out with them, treated her brutally and contemptuously in the presence of her son and servants, and tried to destroy the boy's affection for her.

Mrs. De Saulles spent all yesterday in her bed in the Nassau County Jail, eating almost nothing and showing no interest in life. She has not discussed her former husband since she told the story of her troubles with him to her lawyer on last Saturday night. Since then she has seen only her lawyer, physicians, and a few friends.

Asks for Her Boys.

She was much comforted by receiving a message from Valparaiso notifying her that her mother, sister, and brother were on their way to New York. She inquired frequently whether she was to be allowed to see her boy but has received no satisfactory answer to this question as yet. When Charles A. H. De Saulles was asked if the mother would be allowed to see the boy, he said: "No decision has been reached to refuse or consent, so far as I know. I will try to do in this matter, and in everything else, what is best for the boy's welfare, and just what I believe my brother would have done and what he would want me to do. Further than this I cannot say now. I will be guided to some extent by our family attorney."

A report that George Maurice Heckscher, business partner of De Saulles, had decided to let the boy go to see his mother today, was denied at Mr. Heckscher's office.

Marshall Ward, who was at "The Box" when De Saulles was killed, issued a statement last night in which he said that Mrs. De Saulles had attended many sessions of the sensational Carman trial, and that he thought she had got the idea from that case that a woman might commit a murder and come to be regarded as a heroine. He pointed out that Mrs. De Saulles had engaged the same lawyers who defended Mrs. Carman.

District Attorney Charles R. Weeks of Nassau County, who has spent several days in going over the evidence, has been directing most of his attention to building up his theory that the murder was not impromptu, as counsel for Mrs. De Saulles insists, but that it was deliberate and carefully premeditated.

"The State," he said, "does not believe the theory advanced by the defense that she carried a revolver from her home to that of De Saulles to protect herself on the road, and that she used it on the impulse of the moment. She took it with her on the trip because of another motive—because she wanted to kill her husband."

The defense has been equally active in seeking evidence to prove that the murder was caused by the sudden impulse of a mind already unbalanced. The defense has arrayed a number of circumstances by which they hope to prove that the murder was not premeditated. The first is that Mrs. De Saulles, on the afternoon of the murder, had asked Constable Thorne to call on her that night or the following day regarding an attempted burglary in her garage; the second is that she asked D. Stewart Iglehart, whose wife was a school friend of hers, to accompany her on the journey for the child; the third is that the butler at "The Box," having told her that De Saulles was away and would not return until after 9 o'clock, she went there immediately after 8 o'clock hoping to get the boy and get away before De Saulles should return; the fourth is that the revolver was in poor condition and the cartridges old and liable not to explode; the fifth is that the road was lonely and dangerous, and the sixth, that she committed the crime in the presence of several witnesses and made no effort to escape.

It was reported yesterday that detectives working for the Nassau County authorities had learned from those who saw the shooting that Mrs. De Saulles had kept her husband covered with the revolver, without his knowledge, for several seconds before firing. She carried the revolver in the pocket of her silk sweater and, it is asserted, had her finger on the trigger and the muzzle pointing at De Saulles while she talked to him before she fired the shot. As he turned away from her she drew the weapon and opened fire.

Her statements as after the crime are held by those interested in the prosecution to show extreme heartlessness. One of these was her statement to Constable Thorne and Justice of the Peace Walter R. Jones that she had shot to kill. When she learned, while under arrest, that her husband, whom she thought she had only wounded, had died in the Nassau County Hospital, she is said to have expressed pleasure.

Police Keep Crowd in Order.

The funeral services of John L. De Saulles were held yesterday morning at 11 o'clock at his apartment at 4 West Fifty-seventh Street. Because of the numbers of persons who had been flocking to the undertaking parlor at Sixty-sixth Street and Broadway, twelve policemen were assigned to keep the crowd before the house in order. The crowd which gathered considerably exceeded expectations. More than 2,000 persons collected on the curb, on nearby steps, and other points of vantage. While the funeral was intended to be strictly private, a number of outsiders managed to slip through.

The apartment was crowded, the large majority of the mourners being men, old college friends of De Saulles, friends from business and social life, and others who had been associated with him in political work. The body lay in a coffin covered with a blanket of white roses, and banked at both sides and at the back with masses of flowers. On the covering of the coffin lay a small bouquet of pink roses and a wreath of lilies of the valley.

There was no sermon. The Episcopal service for the dead was supplemented with hymns, including "Lead, Kindly Light," by a quartette from Grace Episcopal Church. The services were conducted by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Ethelbert Talbot of the diocese of Eastern Pennsylvania, and by Dean Frederick Beekman, rector of the Church of the Nativity of South Bethlehem, Penn., the dead man's home town.

Little Jack De Saulles, Jr., for whose sake the mother killed her divorced husband, was not at the funeral. He spent the day playing with his dogs and his pony at the home of George Maurice Heckscher, at Westbury, making a trip later in the day by automobile to the home of August Heckscher at Huntington. The dead man's mother and father were at the funeral, and while the latter, Major Arthur De Saulles, carried himself composedly, his wife, small and white-haired, broke down entirely at the service at the grave. Others of the immediate family present were Charles De Saulles, the brother, and his sisters, Mrs. Caroline Degener and Mrs. A. G. McClintock.

The honorary pallbearers who accompanied the body to the grave were Marshall Ward, Collector of Internal Revenue "Big Bill" Edwards, who played football at Princeton when Jack De Saulles was famous at Yale; Collector of the Port Dudley Field Malone, Rear Admiral Louis Gomez of the Chilean Navy, Captain Philip M. Lydig, a cousin of the dead man; George M. Heckscher, another cousin; Captain Raymond D. Michel, Louis E. Stoddard, Ernest B. Tracy, Coster Wilmerding, William F. McCombs, Lyttleton Fox, the dead man's attorney, and W. L. Pepperman.

JUDGE CROPSEY AND TAMMANY.

The attitude he has for some time held toward the Mayoralty nomination Judge CROPSEY must be prompted by some other motive than a desire to serve the interests of this community. He will not be elected Mayor, he cannot be elected. If Mayor MITCHEL should withdraw his name today, and Judge CROPSEY should be the sole and successful candidate for the nomination in the Republican primaries, he would not be elected. The Republicans of Manhattan are solidly opposed to his pretensions, in Kings he has the support only of a remnant of extreme machine Republicans; and in all the boroughs the members of that party who put the interests of the city and of good government for the city above all political considerations are against him. Coming into the contest in such a way, discreditable in itself, and made more discreditable by the nature of his support, multitudes of Republicans in all the boroughs would refuse to give him any aid. His election could bring no good to the city. A political Judge, transferred from the Bench to City Hall, would be a political Mayor. Between Judge CROPSEY and the Tammany candidate there would be so little to choose that the election would go to Mr. MURPHY'S nominee. If Mr. CROPSEY should become the Republican candidate, that result is as sure as anything can be in New York City politics.

But Mayor MITCHEL is not going to withdraw. Neither he nor any of his Fusion supporters have the remotest idea of his withdrawal. If Mr. CROPSEY should succeed in the primaries against him, Mayor MITCHEL would be renominated by petition. There would be an insistent and compelling demand for his nomination in that manner, in order that the friends of good government, Republicans, Democrats, and Independents, might have a candidate in the field. Mr. MITCHEL would poll far more votes than Mr. CROPSEY, and even if a three-cornered contest resulted in the election of a Tammany Mayor, at least the aiders and abettors and authors of this despicable old game of presenting a Republican candidate to thwart the intentions of all right-minded voters would be punished.

If, however, Judge CROPSEY is permitting his name to be used in a movement deliberately organized to secure the election of a Tammany Mayor, whatever may be said about the morality of the transaction, there can be no criticism of its adaptation to the end sought. That is a question for Judge CROPSEY'S own conscience. If he really believes that the city will be better off under a Tammany Mayor than under Mayor MITCHEL, whose Administration has won the outspoken and hearty commendation of everybody in the community who desires that the affairs of the city shall be honestly and capably managed, then he has chosen the right means to effect his purpose. His success will totally destroy his political reputation, but that is his own affair.

Contemplation of the Tammany plan of campaign, and particularly of the Tammany platform, will show Judge CROPSEY just where he stands. Mr. MURPHY'S organization has entered upon a campaign of fraud and deception. The best commentary upon the platform put forth by the "Democratic Fusion Committee of 170," which is a combination of all the place-hunters, the profit-seekers, the fanatics and shallow visionaries, is supplied by the simple process of looking the facts in the face. Here is an extract from the platform:

> Specifically we are in favor of the public ownership and operation of all public utilities, including traction, gas, electricity, and the telephone. The supply of transportation, light, heat, and power is of the utmost importance to the community. The services rendered have become a necessity to the life, health, comfort, convenience, and industry of the city. Through public ownership and operation only can the cost of these indispensable public services be reduced to the cost of similar services in more progressive cities, and thus only can the selfish resistance of the public utility corporations be made to give way to a progressive development of the city in the interest of the people.

The first fact presenting itself to view is the complete, absolute impossibility of carrying this plan into effect. The constitutional debt limit of the city stands in the way. It would be impossible for the city to find money to purchase and become the owner of one-hundredth part of the public utilities enumerated in this Tammany platform. Yet the Tammany leaders reason, and correctly reason, that the mere promise or pledge of municipal ownership on this immense scale will deceive many voters. There are here, as in any great city, voters ignorant enough to believe that with city ownership fares and charges would be reduced and the service of these corporations supplied at much lower rates. That idea finding lodgment in their minds, it would be difficult or impossible to make them understand that the city cannot buy the properties of these corporations, and that it would be forbidden to confiscate the properties. Even if the transfer to the city were possible, public ownership would not result in cheaper operations or in reduced charges. Does anybody suppose that within the body of Tammany Hall there are men competent to undertake the great and difficult work of managing the traction lines, the gas, electric light, and telephone business cheaply and efficiently? The inevitable result would be a recourse to the tax fund to make up deficits.

But Tammany's calculations stop far short of that point. It is thinking only of the election, and in order to win the election it has had the desperate hardihood to resort to what may be best described as a huge bunco game. And thus far Judge CROPSEY has been lending his name to Tammany for use in promoting its conspiracy for deceiving the people and in aid of its attempt to seize upon the powers of the City Government for its own profit and advantage, to the immeasurable loss of the people of New York in pocket, personal comfort, and the pride they have in the city's good name.

CONGRESS AND THE COUNTRY.

Senator WADSWORTH has been harping again on the need of a Congress Committee on the Conduct of the War, in other words, a Congress Committee to Obstruct the Prosecution of the War. Why doesn't the Administration take the people into its confidence? "Darkness" is breeding "suspicion." What does Senator WADSWORTH hear in his travels at Washington?

> Go about the country, and you will find, not that the people are suspicious or are asking embarrassing questions as to the military or naval plans of the Government, but "How much are these cantonments costing?"
> They can't find out, and so their "suspicion." He has just said that they are not "suspicious." And this nonexistent suspicion "grows and "expands until it becomes a menace "to the Government."

Congress needs a rest, if for no other purpose than to set right Mr. WADSWORTH and other statesmen who seem to imagine that this is not a war, but a political campaign. If these hunters of mare's nests will go among the people and desert the public-opinion-tight compartments in which they live at Washington, they won't find the people worrying about the cost of cantonments. They won't find the people suspicious of the Administration. They will find the people not merely suspicious of, but disgusted with, Senators and members of Congress who are eager to criticise or obstruct, not to support, the Government. They will find the people weary of delay in Congress, of factious opposition, of partisanship that cannot restrain itself in the mightiest of national emergencies.

The country doesn't care a cent at present about the Democratic Party or the Republican Party. It doesn't care a cent about the small corporate jealousy of the Legislative against the Executive. It knows that it is the constitutional duty of the Executive to carry on the war. It expects Congress to help, not hinder, him in carrying it on.

DOUBLY BETRAYED.

Field Marshal VON MACKENSEN'S new attack upon Rumania is doubtless the direct result of the retreat of the Russian Socialist soldiers to the north. Germany conquered Wallachia, one of the two divisions of Rumania, last year, but did not conquer the other, Moldavia. The Rumanian Army stopped its retreat and presented a stiff front to the Germans, and there they have remained for more than half a year. But, with the Russian retreat in Galicia and Bukowina, MACKENSEN evidently believes the Rumanian rear is threatened, and he is accordingly moving on the remaining unconquered half of Rumania. If the Russians to the north of Rumania continue to retreat, Rumania will be at MACKENSEN'S mercy.

No country in the war has had a harder fate than Rumania, for it has been hers to lose not through her own fault but through the treachery of an ally. Her defeats last year were largely due to the treachery of the Court party at Petrograd. Now she is threatened again, though the Court party has vanished, and this time she is threatened through the treachery of the Socialist private soldier of Russia. General ILIESCU, who was the Chief of the Rumanian General Staff in the disastrous campaign last year, has charged that Rumania was betrayed from the beginning. Her very entrance into the war was engineered by Berlin, who knew that she would enter later and therefore wished to rush her in ahead of her preparations. Germany's instrument in this, according to ILIESCU, was BORIS STUERMER, the Russian Premier, who was also Germany's tool in many other ways, as all the world knows.

Rumania protested against entering until she was ready, General ILIESCU declares, but STUERMER forced her to begin at once, promising to support her advance into Transylvania by a Russian advance in Bukowina. This was the reason for that apparently reckless advance of the Rumanians into Transylvania. When they were hopelessly involved in that country STUERMER stopped the movement of the Russian support, and the Rumanians, after a desperate and hopeless fight against superior numbers, were hurled back. The Russians were to have protected Bucharest by the capture of Rustchuk, but they never did. Russia was to have put an army in Dobrudja to prevent a Bulgarian attack, but never did. The unfortunate Rumanians thus found themselves unsupported in the presence of two German armies, which were completely informed of all their war plans. "Sire," said General BERTHELOT, head of the French Mission, to King FERDINAND, "we have been betrayed, "and the treason comes from Petro-"grad."

The Rumanians themselves fought gallantly. The world condemned them for the apparent rashness of their rush into Transylvania, but, now that we know this rush was to have been supported by a simultaneous Russian advance, which was treacherously withheld, it does not seem to have been so rash. It speaks volumes for their military qualities that, betrayed and outnumbered, they were able to extricate their army and then hold the armies of FALKENHAYN and MACKENSEN in check for half a year.

In this they have had Russian support, and the Russians who are holding Moldavia with the Rumanians have not been poisoned by the Socialist treason. Those in Galicia and Bukowina have been corrupted, however, and their retreat has opened the gallantly held Province of Moldavia to new danger. There have been evidences that even among the Russians in Rumania the Socialist virus is at work; on one occasion the loyal soldiers had to surround and disarm a mutinous regiment, and yesterday came the sinister news that two regiments had "voluntarily retired," which, said the Petrograd official announcement, "caused our troops to "retire from this region a few versts "to the east." The Germans were informed in advance of the place where the Socialist soldiers would retreat in Galicia and were able to concentrate their attacks there, and it may be that MACKENSEN has similar information concerning those in Rumania. But General STCHERBATCHEFF'S appeals to his men have held them firm heretofore, and the Rumanian front as a whole has shown the presence of loyal and patriotic soldiers. It is to be hoped that MACKENSEN'S expectations are based only on the treachery in Galicia, not on any anticipated treachery in Rumania.

However that may be, Rumania has suffered first from the treason of the Czar's coterie, and now, when that coterie is swept away, from the Socialist treason. She has fought well and does not deserve her hard fortune. Among those who are now betraying her are many not intentionally working in Germany's cause; men who are deluded into the belief that they are serving the cause of peace, or of the "proletariat." The whole effect of these labors so far has been to advance neither peace nor the cause of the proletariat, but to betray the proletariat of Rumania into the hands of the Kaiser's men.

PRICES, PROFITS, AND PRODUCTION.

It is not surprising that the President is impatient with the slowness of procedure in the matter of price fixing. The present stage is that the Federal Commission has discovered that costs are various, and that the difficulties of price fixing are such that it prefers it should be done by somebody else. No one should dissent from the proposal attributed to the President that the Government is entitled to be provided with what it needs at a reasonable price, including cost, fair profit, and the means for the expansion of the industry. If any sordid trader should lift up his voice in favor of unlimited profits from the Government he ought not to be heard.

The President also proposes that the price to the Government should be the price to all the Allies. That is a necessary sequel to the fixing of fair prices for the Government. No distinction can be drawn between Governments allied in the same cause, even though not in treaty. They are partners, and goods sold to one are sold to all for the good of the common cause, which takes precedence over any question of profits, however fairly earned under other conditions. Besides, it must be remembered that the Allies pay for the goods they buy here with bonds floated on their account by our Government. It is unthinkable that we should provide funds for the sake of allowing a profit above that which is fixed as fair for our own Government.

A difficulty is reached in the proposal that consumers in general shall be entitled to be served at the fixed price. The intention is as good as the prevention of competitive buying between the departments of our Government, or between the Allies. Discriminating between customers has long been thought offensive policy on the part of the trusts, and open to the objection of unfair competition. One price to all is a necessity in department store operation. There is a presumption in favor of the justice of an invariable price, or a price varied only by the costs of delivery, such as freight. But there are objections. The necessities of all buyers are not the same. One may be under contract obligations, and it might be a just favor, or a necessity to him, that he should be allowed to pay more than a price fixed as fair to a buyer whose early buying has reduced the supply for all others. When a market is overbought, new buyers should not be encouraged to enter it under conditions like the present. Also it is to be considered whether the Government's fair price is one that will produce the goods. On that point there is fresh evidence.

The relaxation in the coal market a few weeks ago was due to the opening of hundreds of mines which could not produce or sell at lower prices. Those mines, especially what are called "wagon mines," are stopping work. From June 1 to mid-July each week showed successive increases of production. Since then there have been successive decreases. According to the Geological Survey, the decrease in bituminous production was 2.2 per cent. for eleven States for the week ended July 21 alone. Moreover, the price which was fixed and repudiated at Washington has not prevented buying by Canadians, and a Washington dispatch says that the Government Export Council is considering forbidding the export of coal needed by American consumers. It is Wall Street theory that the man who will pay the highest interest is the man who most needs accommodation, and that it is the right of both buyer and seller to meet upon terms which will put the money where it will do most good. But the selling of coal to Canada is met with the suggestion that it is designed to create an appearance of shortage and to influence the price fixers. Also it is said that it is our duty to protect Canadian consumers and to prevent the coal from being used to supply neutral steamers in Canadian ports. But neutrals are not allies, and private buyers are not entitled to Government terms, in other countries anyway.

Another difficulty in fixing prices is afforded by the news yesterday that the Governors of sixteen States are to meet Aug. 16 and consider a policy of seizing coal mines. There is danger in competitive price reduction as well as in competitive price increases. And competition between national and State price fixers is undesirable. If the Government fixes a fair price for itself and the Allies, that will serve as a standard, giving notice that whoever pays more may pay too much. On the other hand, a price which will not produce the goods is too low, however fixed.

THE WISDOM OF THOMPSON.

"They attack me," complains Mayor THOMPSON of Chicago, "because I do "not believe in sending our youths to "the trenches of Europe without their "consent, instead of providing an ade-"quate army to prevent home inva-"sion."

It is hard to understand the peculiar blessings that are supposed to lie in having the war fought on American soil instead of French or German soil. Mayor THOMPSON and his fellow-thinkers all seem to set great store on having the Germans come over here. They would rather fight HINDENBURG in New Jersey and Massachusetts and Virginia than in France. The Chicago Mayor would have us raise the army we are raising, keep it here until the French and British are defeated, and then advance gallantly to meet the Germans all along our coast.

If THOMPSON were alone in this sort of argument, it would not be worth while to pay any attention to him. But with his nonsense about using our army against "home invasion" instead of in "the trenches of Europe" he has concentrated in a sentence the whole absurdity which more skillful laborers in the pro-German cause manage to conceal behind a maze of words. We are going to fight the Germans in France to keep from having to fight them in the United States, because we regard fighting them in the United States as a dreadful prospect. THOMPSON and his more intelligent companions act and talk as if that prospect were a delightful one.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Embarrassing as Well as "Lively."

What was called —and well might have been—"a lively discussion" took place in the upper house of the British Parliament this week. It was amusing as well as lively, for the subject was the sale of titles, with the price taking the shape of large contributions to party campaign funds.

The familiar denunciations of this practice and the equally familiar gibes at nobility thus acquired were made by noble lords whose titles were either otherwise attained or were attained in much the same way so long ago that the method has been forgotten by most people except the professional genealogists. Of course it was the irrepressible Lord CHARLES BERESFORD who added to the charge of purchase the accusation that a good deal of the money thus spent went into private pockets instead of party treasuries, but that gave Lord CURZON a chance to close a discussion that must have been highly embarrassing to not a few of those who had to hear it, for he was able to say that though the abuse was grave enough, its exploitation had been marked by much exaggeration. Thereupon their lordships turned their attention to matters less lively, perhaps, but considerably more important.

Nobody seems to have thought of Bassanio's pious wish—

> Oh, that estates, degrees and offices were not > derived corruptly,
> And that true honor were purchased by the > merit of the wearer.

The quoting of those lines would have been a reminder that the sale of titles is no latter-day evil, and it would have been easy enough for anybody interested in defending modern titles and modern awardings of them to prove that the contributor to party funds earns his honorific recompense by a more innocent service than that rendered in the "good old times" by many a royal favorite whose descendants now sniff superior to "beer Barons" and other nobles of recent elevation.

At least British titles are not created now for the avowed purpose of selling them to anybody with the power and the inclination to buy, and quite as often as ever in the past do those titles go to men the reality of whose public services is beyond question. Also, nowhere else in Europe does a title lower than the highest mean as much or have as much real value as in England.

Of Military Titles for Civilians.

Over here in the United States we affect disdain of titles, and really have abolished the transmission of them from father to son, but it is not alone in Kentucky that something more elevating and distinguishing than plain "Mr." is the object of a fairly common desire. And we, too, have had not infrequently our own "lively discussions" as to the propriety of allotting the names of military grades to men whose public service, if any, has been purely civilian—or impurely political. On general principles, this custom has been, and should be, more or less severely criticised by the more or less authorized guardians of our democracy, but occasionally the giving of military titles to men whose work has been or is other than the conduct of war or the direct preparation for it really is excusable or expedient.

Such is the case as regards the action just taken by the Administration with respect to the Red Cross officials. Secretary BAKER has taken care to explain that in conferring on those officials the same titles as are worn in the fighting force he has not given them "the authority, obligation, or other incident attached to rank or office," or "any right to the pay or allowances of similarly described grades in the United States Army." The titles are to be nothing more than "certificates of identity."

That recognizes the essential rightness of the common antagonism to such uses of military titles, but the Red Cross officials have a claim to them nearly, perhaps quite, as good as that of the members of the Army Medical Corps, and experience has proved conclusively that the Army Surgeon in his several grades acquires added efficiency in no small measure when the men for whom he cares must call him General or Colonel or Major, and so on down to Lieutenant, instead of the too familiar "Doc." The latter name may imply affection, and even respect, but it does not help in the maintenance of discipline or the enforcement of obedience.

The Red Cross in time of war is practically a part of the army, and its members, when in the field, perform what amounts to military service. They can carry an army title, therefore, without inviting ridicule. As for those who remain at home, their case is not quite as clear, but it is a fairly good one, and only the ill-conditioned pacifists are going to press the point of strict legitimacy of nomenclature against General TAFT or General DAVISON.

Submarine War at Its Worst.

It adds nothing to the atrocity of the way in which the crew of the steamship Belgian Prince were treated by the commander of a German submarine that four of them were Americans, but the fact of their nationality will impress more deeply upon our minds the nature of the deed then committed.

When news of the vessel's loss first came, something was said to the effect that the submarine submerged and drowned the helpless prisoners on her deck because an enemy patrol boat had been sighted. That provided an explanation for the drowning of the men, though not an excuse for it, as they could all have been taken inside the submersible for the half hour or so that would have been required for her escape. Seemingly, however, no patrol boat was near, as the three survivors were in the water for eleven hours, and the theory of an excusable haste in going under water is contradicted by the proven circumstance that, after the men were ordered upon the submarine's deck, their lifeboat was smashed and most of them were deprived of their outer clothing and life belts.

The case as it stands, therefore, can be interpreted only as one of deliberate murder, so far beyond adequate characterization that to attempt it would be a waste of words. It relieves one's feelings a little, though, to say that this incident stands prominent, even in submarine warfare as conducted by Germany. There was in it no question of the "sporadic crime" or the "individual criminal" that has been so hard worked in palliation of the atrocities committed in Belgium and the occupied parts of France. The crews of submarines are carefully picked men, under the stern control of still more carefully selected officers.

AN OLD FOUNTAIN.

He heeds nor mold, nor sun, nor cold,
The Satyr at the spring,
Where in and out, and all about,
The rippling waters sing.

With what long gain of love and pain
Their melody is fraught!
Here, mirth and tears and hopes and fears
Have lads and maidens brought.

Here children stray, in early May,
With blossoms from the hedge,
To wreathe with pale rose garlands frail
The fountain's carven edge.

Here sweethearts mourn for lovers borne
To battle far away.
And mothers weep for sons who sleep
Beneath an alien clay.

Aye, love and life, and death and strife,
Here daily trysting keep.
Where, grim and chill, as Fortune's will,
The Satyr lies asleep.

CHARLOTTE BECKER.

ANGLO-AMERICAN ALLIANCE.

Two Nations Drawn Together Against Despotism, as in 1823.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Since the Russian revolution and the intervention of the United States on the side of the Allies, the war has become more clearly than ever a struggle between despotism and liberty. It is interesting to notice that the United States and England were drawn together in the same cause almost one hundred years ago. In 1823 there was a danger that the Holy Alliance between the Emperors of Austria and Russia and the King of Prussia would interfere in South America in support of Spain against her revolted colonies. Mr. Canning, the English Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, suggested that the United States should take decided ground against such intervention. President Monroe consulted ex-Presidents Jefferson and Madison about this proposal of Mr. Canning, and the following extracts from the correspondence of these three distinguished men are of special interest at the present time.

On Oct. 17, 1823, Monroe writes to Jefferson:

> Has not the epoch arrived when Great Britain must take her stand, either on the side of the monarchs of Europe or of the United States, and, in consequence, either in favor of despotism or of liberty, and may it not be presumed that, aware of that necessity, her Government has seized on the present occurrence as that which it deems the most suitable to announce and mark the commencement of that career? —Jefferson Papers. Letters from James Monroe, second series, Vol. 53, No. 153.

In Mr. Jefferson's reply, dated Monticello, Oct. 24, 1823, he writes:

> While the last (Europe) is laboring to become the domicile of despotism, our endeavor should surely be to make our hemisphere that of freedom. One nation, most of all, could disturb us in this pursuit. She now offers to lead, aid, and accompany us in it. By acceding to her proposition we detach her from the hands of despots, bring her mighty weight into the scale of free government and emancipate at one stroke a whole continent which might otherwise linger long in doubt and difficulty. Great Britain is the nation which can do us the most harm of any one or all on earth, and with her on our side we need not fear the whole world. With her, then, we should the most sedulously nourish a cordial friendship, and nothing would tend more to knit our affections than to be fighting once more side by side in the same cause. * * * Nor is the occasion to be slighted when this proposition offers, of declaring our protest against the atrocious violations of the rights of nations by the interference of any one in the internal affairs of another, so flagitiously begun by Bonaparte and now continued by the equally lawless alliance calling itself Holy. —Monroe Papers, Vol. XXI., No. 2647.

These quotations may be concluded by one sentence from a letter of Madison to Jefferson dated Montpelier, Nov. 1, 1823:

> "With the British power and navy combined with our own, we have nothing to fear from the rest of the world, and in the great struggle of the epoch between liberty and despotism, we owe it to ourselves to sustain the former."

Germany's Wars, 1871-1914.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We constantly hear from German apologists that from 1871 to August, 1914, Germany was always at peace and was the one uniformly peaceable first-class power.

From 1903 to 1907 the Herrero war in German Southwest Africa was the most bitterly contested war between whites and blacks known to the twentieth century. Five thousand German soldiers and settlers and 20,000 to 30,000 natives perished.

In 1897 Germany seized Kiao-Chau because of the murder of two Catholic missionaries, and rattled the sabre to such an extent that when, in 1900, the Chinese Boxers began a war with the world it was primarily because of Germany's acts. The German Minister to China was the foreign official against whom the Boxers struck their first blows. In the Boxer war of 1900 that followed, Germany, as the leader of Continental Europe, sent Field Marshal von Waldersee as the international Commander in Chief and waged a Hunlike war, without quarter.

In 1888-1889, 1891-1892, and 1905 and 1906 Germany was three times at war with and finally conquered the Arabs and blacks in East Africa. Von Wissman, Karl Peters, and other German commanders waged aggressive wars of conquest with the utmost ferocity. One hundred and twenty thousand natives are estimated to have fallen in the last of the three East African wars alone.

German propagandists are as ignorant of the facts of modern history as modern German statesmen are indifferent to the validity of treaties, which they describe as only scraps of paper.

White Flour as Food.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Here in New England we are going to have a "No White Bread Week," beginning Aug. 6, and the food administrator "hopes that 15,000 barrels of white flour may be saved during the week." This seems to me a curious way of putting it, for, so far as food is concerned, there is practically none in the whole 15,000 barrels. White flour is a mere starchy stuffing that makes a so-called bread; but it is in no sense the "staff of life." When we are confronted with a "food" that the worms fight shy of, we may well follow their lead. They won't touch white flour; but the housewife has to guard graham (whole meal) very carefully else they will camp in it. Then, however fond we may be of animal food, we can't seem to relish this particular brand!

The great advantage of the proposed move is that boarders in hotels, restaurants, and clubs and our citizens in their homes will have a genuine instead of a make-believe food; it will be whole meal of wheat, rye, or corn. Although it remains to be said that our "cornmeal," being bolted, is not much better than white flour; in both cases the cattle get the best of it, although it is true that both cattle and men need the entire product of the grain for their best nourishment. More than seventy-five years ago the famous Dr. Magendie of Paris in one of his experiments settled the question as to whether white flour is or is not nutritious by feeding one penful of dogs on white bread and another penful on graham at the same time. The graham-bread dogs throve perfectly, while every last white-bread dog starved to death.

Norway's Food Requirements.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have been informed by J. L. Vogt of the Norwegian Expert Commission in New York that Norway at present produces food grains enough to support only one-third of the population, and also that the per capita consumption is considerably higher than six bushels. He observes that Dr. Nansen did not mean 15,000,000 bushels of wheat as quoted in THE TIMES, but food grains, which would mean in this case wheat, rye, and perhaps also some barley.

As I am not an expert in statistics, I am willing to accept Mr. Vogt's figures, which he claims are based on pre-war imports. The law against exportation of all foodstuffs except fish seems to be strict enough to prevent anything from crossing the frontier to Sweden.

I do not believe that we should let Norway or any of the neutrals starve if we can possibly help them, but the crux of the whole matter is this. We are asked to feed Norway while Norway continues to export her fish to feed our enemies. Is not that asking too much?

BURGOMASTER MAX ILL.

News Comes with Report of Honor Paid Him by Brussels Lawyers.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The Central News quotes the newspaper Belgisch Dagblad to the effect that Burgomaster Max of Brussels is seriously ill in prison at Celle, a Prussian town twenty-three miles northeast of Hanover. King Alfonso of Spain is said to have intervened fruitlessly in his behalf.

HAVRE, Aug. 8.—Lawyers of Brussels have unanimously elected Adolphe Max, the heroic Burgomaster imprisoned by Germans, as President of the Bar Association, according to news received here. The announcement of the election was received with rousing cheers, regardless of the fact that German sentries were posted at the Palace of Justice, where the election took place.

Burgomaster Max was arrested in Brussels on Sept. 28, 1914, for his "irreconcilable attitude," according to an announcement of the German Military Governor. After being imprisoned at various places in Germany he was finally interned at Glatz. Paris papers some time ago asked President Wilson, the Pope, and the King of Spain to intervene in his behalf. More recently the Belgians offered to exchange the Governor General of German East Africa, Dr. Schnee, for M. Max.

CALLS UP REVENUE BILL.

Simmons Gets It Before the Senate —Weeks of Debate to Follow.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. — Senator Simmons, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, called up today the War Revenue bill, with its appropriation of $2,006,790,000, for consideration. This placed the bill on the calendar with the right of way until disposed of.

Debate on the measure will begin on Friday, when Senator Simmons will go into an analysis of the measure, explaining its various features. It is expected that, after Senator Simmons has spoken, the Senate will adjourn until next Monday, so as to give the Senators an opportunity to study the measure. Three weeks' debate probably will follow before there is a vote. After its passage it will go to conference, where another long period of discussion is ahead of it. Senate leaders thought tonight that the bill probably would not be disposed of until the middle of September.

Board for Welfare Work Organized in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Representatives of the National Jewish organizations of the country met here today and formed the Jewish Board for Welfare Relief Work in the United States Army and Navy. Work similar to that carried on by the Young Men's Christian Association will be undertaken, particularly for the benefit of the 50,000 or more Jewish youths who will be among the first American fighting forces sent to war.

Members of the board conferred with Secretaries Baker and Daniels. From Secretary Baker a promise was obtained to grant leaves to drafted Jews for the Jewish high holidays, beginning with the new year, Sept. 17. Such questions as the appointment of Jewish chaplains were discussed, but were left in abeyance to be taken up again later.

Officers of the board were named as follows: Chairman, Colonel Harry Cutler, Providence; Vice Chairman, Dr. Cyrus Adler, Philadelphia; Treasurer, S. S. Rosenstamm, New York; Secretary, Sidney Goldstein, New York.

BERNHARDT'S SON HERE.

Brings Family to Visit Actress, Who Could Not Visit France.

Maurice Bernhardt, son of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, arrived yesterday from France to see his mother, who has been recuperating at Long Beach from a serious illness. He was accompanied by his second wife and his eighteen-year-old daughter. Mme. Bernhardt drove in her automobile to meet them.

It has been the custom of the famous actress to spend every Summer with her family at Belle Isle on the coast of Brittany, where she has a picturesque château built above the rocks overhanging the shore, but she was prevented from going home this Summer by the illness which cut short her tour in America. Maurice Bernhardt, who is plump, gray and elderly, said that he was not in the French army, but had been engaged in work for his Government during the war. The party drove off to Long Beach accompanied by Chin-Chin, a chow dog from Formosa, that, it was said, can tell the time in Chinese.

HELD IN INDIA PLOT INQUIRY

Former German Attaches Arrested by Federal Agents in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Two former attachés of the German Consulate here, who became attachés of the Swiss Consulate after the outbreak of the war, were arrested by Federal agents today and will be held as witnesses against Chicagoans accused of conspiracy to foment a revolution in India.

The men arrested are Herman Neidinger and Richard Kulke. They are said to have important knowledge concerning the alleged connection of Kurt von Reiswitz, former Assistant German Consul in Chicago, with the Indian plot.

Current History in New Zealand.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your very interesting Current History Magazine for May has just come to hand, and I must again congratulate you upon the high standard maintained therein. The photographs of the commanders of army departments are most beautifully reproduced.

I like your new national anthem, and trust your brave soldiers who are gone to fight for the freedom of the world will be inspired by it to deeds of glory. We, in this far-off little speck in the ocean, with only a little over a million people, have already sent over 80,000 men to fight the barbarians of Europe. Many, alas! have gone, never to return. Years ago I was told in a conversation the Austrian Consul said America stood in the way of Germany with the Monroe Doctrine. He said that Germany wanted Brazil as a colony for her people. Now she has lost all chance of that. With all their well-thought-out schemes, they have failed in everything but destruction.

Your magazine seems to be increasing in sale here, as I now see it on most booksellers' counters.

ATTACK BY KNIGHTS UNFAIR, SAYS MAYOR

He Accuses Members of Columbus Order in Correspondence Made Public.

'A POLITICAL CAMPAIGN'

Mitchel Asserts "Sinister Influence" Was Exerted to Hamper His Administration.

Correspondence that passed some months ago between Mayor Mitchel and James H. Finegan, State Deputy of the New York State Council of the Knights of Columbus, in which the Mayor severely criticised what he asserted were the political activities of certain members of the order, was given out at the City Hall yesterday. It shows that the Mayor was at one time convinced that several Knights of Columbus had served on the Brooklyn Grand Jury which indicted William H. Hotchkiss and Charities Commissioner John A. Kingsbury in connection with the wire-tapping case, but that the Mayor later admitted that his information was erroneous.

On April 24 State Deputy Finegan wrote the Mayor that he had seen in the Tablet, a Catholic paper published in Brooklyn, a letter from the Mayor to Bishop McDonnell of Brooklyn, in which the Mayor quoted from a speech he had made at Princeton as follows: "At about that time the men learned, or suspected, that their telephones were being supervised, and immediately a great fuss was kicked up. Among other things, and here again we see the working of that sinister influence that is so malign to government—the matter was taken up by a Grand Jury in Brooklyn composed in material part of Knights of Columbus."

Mr. Finegan asked the Mayor if he had been correctly quoted, and added: "I realize the seriousness of the position in which the Knights of Columbus are being placed, and I feel that you, as a member of the order, certainly would be the last person in the world to willingly give a wrong impression to fellow-citizens, non-Catholics and Catholics not members of the order, as to its motives, purposes, and ideals, and it is to the end that this matter may be cleared up and that the Knights of Columbus as an organization of loyal citizens and upright Catholic gentlemen with high ideals may be cleared of all imputations of motives or acts unworthy of the most loyal citizens of our land that I write to you."

Replying on July 16, Mayor Mitchel admitted that he had been correctly quoted in his Princeton speech, but said that he had unwittingly done a substantial injustice to the Knights of Columbus, as he had discovered that no member of the Grand Jury was a member of that order.

> In our conversation you pointed out that my reference to a sinister influence might be construed to imply that the Knights of Columbus constitute such an influence, and that the order as such lends itself to the exercise of a malign influence upon the Government. This was neither my purpose nor do I believe that the words used could be fairly so construed. What I intended to convey was that the same malign and sinister influence, successfully exerted and exercised at other times and in other instances by certain officials of the Catholic Church in the Archdiocese of New York and the Diocese of Brooklyn, had again made itself evident in this instance. You and I are both of the opinion that it is fundamentally violative of the principles of the Order of the Knights of Columbus not only to attempt the exercise of undue influence upon public officials, but that any participation of the Knights of Columbus as an order in politics, and even the discussion of political questions at regular meetings of councils or chapters, are strictly forbidden.

In his justification the Mayor recited instances which came to light as a result of the investigation ordered by Mayor Gaynor and made by Controller Prendergast and himself in 1910 into the accounts of private charitable institutions which receive city funds. He said:

> Although this was our public duty, imposed by virtue of our respective offices and discharged under the obligation of our respective oaths, the Controller and I became our duty was discharged rigorously and conscientiously, without favor and without the suppression of any fact, became the objects of abuse and misrepresentation by certain members of both the Catholic laity and the Catholic clergy of this city. This political campaign of abuse and misrepresentation—for it became political against the Controller and myself was carried into meetings of the Knights of Columbus.

The Mayor then stated that in the winter of 1911-1912 a council of the Knights of Columbus on Long Island, "acting at the instance of a certain clergyman and of a man occupying a high official position in the order," invited the late Daniel C. Potter to speak before the council at an open meeting. The Mayor said that at this meeting, much advertised by members of the Knights of Columbus and largely attended, the speech made by Dr. Potter was "filled with falsehoods, wrong statements and implications of the

TWO PRODUCERS TELL OF SEASON'S PLANS

John Drew and Margaret Illington Will Be Stars in "The Gay Lord Quex."

"MAYTIME" FOR CASINO

Shuberts and Their Allies Will Send a Hundred Companies to Cities Outside New York.

Some interesting promises for New York theatregoers were included in the announcements issued yesterday from the offices of two producers of plays. One of the most interesting was that John Drew and Margaret Illington would appear again as co-stars for the first time since they acted together in Pinero's "His House in Order." The two will first appear under the direction of John D. Williams in this author's "The Gay Lord Quex."

The Shuberts contemplate one of the most active seasons in their career as producers and managers.

Their first production of the season will take place Monday night, when "Maytime," an operetta adapted from the German, will be presented at the Casino. Their productions of the early season will include a new play for William Hodge. Walker Whiteside has been placed under their management and will be seen in "The Pawn," a melodrama by Joseph Noel and Azelle Aldrich, in which Frank Keenan appeared last spring in Chicago. Henri Bataille's drama, "Les Flambeaux," first acted at the Théâtre Porte St. Martin, Paris in 1911, is scheduled for presentation here. "Jubilee Drex," by Horace Annesley Vachell and Walter Hackett, seen in London last season, is included in their list, as are also Marion Davies's "The Melting of Molly," a dramatization by Eugene Walter of John Fox's "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," a comedy by Roland Potree, entitled "Beginning Again"; another by Paul Frank, called "The Blue Pearl," and Anne Crawford Flexner's "Wanted, an Alibi." Eugene Walter has written a melodrama called "The Assassin," and Dorothy Donnelly and August Barrett are co-authors of "The Sham Widow." "The Riddle Woman," by Carl M. Jacoby; "Chi Chi," by Julius Magnusson, and a new play for Taylor Holmes are among the contemplated dramatic productions.

The Shuberts have always specialized in the production of musical comedies, and this season they will offer many new ones. Among these will be "Lieutenant Gus," by A. M. Willner and Robert Bodanzky, with music by Edmund Eysler; "Miss I Don't Know," by Bakony and Huszaka; "The Star Gazer," by Cosmo Hamilton; "The Cave Lady," by Charles Dixon and Roland Oliver, with music by H. B. Olsen; and three new revues at the Winter Garden. McIntyre and Heath will be seen in a new musical comedy by Harold Atteridge, and Justine Johnstone will be starred in a revue on the Forty-fourth Street Theatre Roof.

Mr. Williams's revival of Pinero's "The Gay Lord Quex" will take place in November. The author has completed a revised version of the comedy, which was last acted here eighteen years ago by Sir John Hare and Irene Vanbrugh. When they have finished with the Pinero piece Miss Illington and Mr. Drew will be seen in other plays. Mr. Williams will produce late in the Fall Augustus Thomas's new drama, "The Copperhead," and in December will present a new play by Edward Sheldon. The principal part in this will be acted by a well known moving picture actress. A new comedy by W. Somerset Maugham, entitled "Love in a Cottage," and Eugene Brieux's "The Red Robe" will be among Mr. Williams's later productions.

The Plymouth an American Theatre.

Arthur Hopkins has named the theatre he recently leased from the Shuberts the Plymouth. The name was chosen because of its American flavor. The playhouse, which is in West Forty-fifth Street, is rapidly nearing completion and will be opened late next month, probably by William Gillette in "A Successful Calamity."

YANKS LOSE GAME OF CIRCUIT BANGS

Indians Take Second Fray with Two Homers, While Caldwell's Nets Lone Local Run.

NEW YORKERS WIN FIRST

Donovanites Gather Thirteen Hits in Opening Encounter, Making the Score 8 to 2.

For a few minutes after the first game at the Polo Grounds yesterday the Yanks were back in third place because they gave Cleveland a slam bang beating, but then the Indians spruced up, and in an outburst of home run drives took the second game. Accordingly the Yanks slipped back to the customary fifth position berth. The Yanks won the first, 8 to 2, while the Clevelands took the other, 2 to 1.

The second encounter was an unusual affair, inasmuch as all three runs were home run drives. It was a tight pitching battle between Caldwell and Stanley Coveleskie, and, as has been the case so many times before, the Yanks failed to help Caldwell out with any hitting. Caldwell himself hammered out a home run, which saved the home lads from a whitewash. Elmer Smith and Jack Graney contributed the two home run drives which gave the Indians the victory.

A crowd of about 10,000 enthused over the Yankees when they won so handily in the initial tilt, and they did a lot of imploring for the Yanks to help out Caldwell in the second game with a little hitting, but their entreaties were unheeded. Tris Speaker, one of the most violent hitters in this country, fell down with a thud before the Yankee pitchers in both games. Ray Fisher stopped him in the first without a hit, and Caldwell held him at bay in the second wrangle. Tris, however, cavorted with his usual agility in the outfield, and at times played all three of the outgardens.

Smoky Joe Wood, who casts a heavy gloom over the Polo Grounds in the World's Series of 1912, made his first appearance here since he attempted to come back with the Indians. Joe got into the game in the seventh inning after it was lost, and while he was pitching the Yanks gathered only one run. Bagby, one of the best of the Cleveland flingers, started the game, but he was hammered into oblivion in the fourth inning when the Yanks woke up, and a fusillade of six hits gave them as many runs.

Fisher Clouts a Homer.

Fisher pitched great ball in the first game, holding Cleveland to half a dozen hits. Up to the third inning the Yank batsmen were baffled by Bagby's pitching, so Fisher decided to help out his own cause, and he poled a home run into the left field bleachers. The Yankee pitchers have become the most dangerous hitters on Exile Donovan's squad, and within the past few days Mogridge, Mamaux, and Caldwell have blossomed into valuable batsmen.

Caldwell was going along serenely in the second game when Elmer Smith faced him in the fourth inning. Smith is a left-handed hitter, and he turned a ball into the lower tier of the right field grandstand. There was a mad scramble for the souvenir among the fans, and the park cops tried to get the ball as the fans played hide and seek with it. In the next inning, with two out, Graney hammered the ball to the fence in left centre, and made the circuit of the bases in record time.

When Caldwell came to the bat in the fifth with the game 2 to 0 against him he decided to take matters into his own hands. He gave the ball a terrific smash, and sent it singing on a glorious ride to right centre. The gate in right centre field was open, and the ball was headed directly for the opening. The ground keeper closed the gate just in time to save the ball from rolling down to 125th Street. After that the Yanks didn't get a hit until two were gone in the ninth. Baker, who had gone through the two games without a hit, smashed a single to right, but Coveleskie then buckled down and struck Marsans out.

Manager Bill Donovan is still up in the air about his suspension. Ban Johnson is keeping the period of Wild Bill's banishment a secret. If Bill only knew just how long his vacation was going to last he could make some plans and go to the seashore or the mountains, but as it is he has to hang around the Polo Grounds under cover and get what little fun he can eating ice cream and peanuts.

Yanks Get Thirteen Hits.

The Yanks gathered no less than thirteen hits off Bagby, Gould and Joe Wood in that first game, Hendryx and Elmer Miller each getting three, while Fisher and Marsans got two each. When a club is saturated with that kind of hitting it deserves a better fate than fifth place in the league gallop.

Bagby was annihilated by the Yanks in their half of the fourth of the opening game. Pipp was safe on Wambsganss's bobble and Baker fanned. Marsans got a hit when he bunted and discovered first uncovered. Miller got a bunt along the third base line and filled the corners. Nunamaker crashed a double to right, sweeping the bases of Pipp, Marsans and Miller.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—Philadelphia and St. Louis took turns leading in today's game until the tenth inning, when McInnis opened with a single and Schang hit for a home run, winning for the home team 6 to 5. Sothoron outpitched Myers, but two of the former's three wild throws to first base helped the Athletics in their scoring.

GIANTS PROFIT BY HORNSBY'S BAD TOSS

Wild Throw Upsets Cardinals' Calculations and New York Wins by 4 to 2 Score.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 8.—Hornsby's wild throw and its sequel, Jack Miller's muff, enabled the Giants to win, 4 to 2, today. The play that trimmed the Cardinals came in the second. Doak fanned the first Giant, Zimmerman. Art Fletcher punched a hit through Hornsby and Dave Robertson walked. The Giants left-handed slugger poled one foul into the right field bleachers. Doak took particular care that he did not hit another there. Two on, one down, and Walter Holke hopped the ball straight to Hornsby.

In his anxiety to initiate a double play, Hornsby hurried the throw. The peg was a trifle high and traveled with the speed of a bullet. The ball broke through Miller's raised hands and sailed into right centre. Fletcher scored from third while the ball was retrieved and Robertson pressed to the far corner, scoring on Bill Rariden's tap to Doak. Holke took second on Rariden's out and tallied on Sallee's lucky hit to the left of Paulette.

Paulette opened the second with a double to centre and reached third on Baird's single. Frank Snyder's single to left sent Paulette over. Burns juggled Snyder's drive long enough to allow Baird to take third. No damage. Long walked, filling the cushions. Three on, one down, and Manager Huggins switched from J. Smith, a left-hand hitter, to Betzel, a right-hand swinger. McGraw countered by benching Sallee for Poll Perritt, a right-hand twirler. Huggins came right back with another left-hand sticker, Red Smyth. Dave Robertson swallowed Smyth's tap back of second. Miller pulled one to Zimmerman, who captured the ball and stepped on third, forcing Snyder.

Perritt declined to allow the Cards a hit until the eighth. Poll bowled over nineteen batsmen in regulation order. Miller got to him for the first hit in the eighth. Cruise opened the ninth with a home run to deep centre.

The game abounded in sensational one-hand work. George Burns backed out fifty feet for Long's fly in the fifth and after misjudging the ball saved himself an error by a brilliant glove-hand stab.

Burns tripled in the fifth and scored on Hersog's sacrifice fly.

REDS LOSE AND WIN.

Boston Whitewashes Mattles and Then Gets the Brush.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 8.—Boston opened their series here today by dividing a double-header with Cincinnati. Both games were pitchers' battles, but in the first game Boston bunched three of their five hits, with two Cincinnati errors, enabled them to score two runs in the eighth, which proved enough to win.

In the second game Toney outpitched Nehf, holding Boston to three scattered hits and no runs, while Cincinnati got safely six times, and in the first, sixth, and seventh innings managed to score single runs.

TWO HITS OFF JIM VAUGHN.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Only twenty-eight Dodgers went to bat against Jim Vaughn at Weeghman Park today, when the Cubs captured a shut-out game, 2 to 0. Twenty-six of them went out in order, which means that the faded champs passed out one, two, three until two were out in the ninth. Then a pinch-hitter, Hickman, drew Vaughn's only walk, spoiling the record, for he was left on base when Olson closed the combat with a fly.

Two hits were made off the hefty North Side southpaw, but neither clubber was on base long enough to attract attention. Jim Johnston bagged one of the blows, a double to left in the second, but he went out trying to make third on the clout, when Mann's relay peg got through Deal. Elliott was backing up, however, and his toss to third erased the racer. Olson got the other hit, a single, starting the seventh. He was forced by Daubert, who in turn was doubled up when Meyers poked to third. This was the limit of the Dodger base running adventures until Hickman was pressed into service vice Marquard in the ninth.

It took just such a game as Vaughn turned in to enable the home folks to triumph over the last year leaders, however, for Rube Marquard pitched a great game himself. He limited the Cubs to seven hits, two of which came together twice and accounted for the winning tallies. Rube's only pass was coined into the first run and a wide throw on a fielder's choice at the plate let the second run scamper safely over the counting rubber.

Education Notes.

The Board of Education yesterday withdrew its temporary appointment of Clara de Lesse Berg as inspector of visual aids to instruction, and appointed her instead as temporary expert in visual aids for six weeks at the rate of $200 a month. The first position required that she be nominated first by the Board of Superintendents. The other does not require it. The Board of Examiners will hold an examination in the Fall for Inspector of Visual Aids. In the course of the debate on the matter, John J. Keller and Thomas W. Churchill declared that President Willcox's secretary, Mr. Phoenix, had written a letter saying that Miss Berg would be appointed, despite the efforts of the minority in the board to defeat her.

Mrs. Gertrude Hoag, teacher of domestic science, has been assigned to that office by the Supervisor of Domestic Science during the absence of the regular clerk, at a salary of $3.50 a day.

Secretary A. Emerson Palmer is on his vacation. His place at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Education was filled by Assistant Secretary Fred M. Johnson.

Associate Superintendent John L. Tildsley is the Acting City Superintendent.

Miss Martha Lincoln Draper of the Board of Education is in France.

Ruth A. Harper has been assigned as substitute at large to the office of the District Superintendent in charge of recreation centres, vacation schools, and playgrounds until Sept. 8, at $3.50 a day.

The Board of Education voted to grant the request of the Foundation Company for the use of the large drill shed in P. S. 117, Bushwick Avenue and Stagg Street, Brooklyn, for developing molds for ships under construction for the French Government, as there is no other building in New York so well adapted for the purpose.

Margaret Shaw, Principal of P. S. 100, Brooklyn, was appointed to give instruction in housekeeping twice a week for the remainder of the Summer to the girls of P. S. 106 and 50. Instruction will be given at 101 Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn.

President Willcox announced that he will call a special meeting of the Board of Education on Aug. 29, to consider the 1918 budget.

WAR VICTIMS THE LOSERS.

Hundreds Complain Kennedy, Mitchell & Co. Did Not Forward Funds.

Daniel W. Blumenthal of 35 Wall Street, attorney for the receiver in bankruptcy of Kennedy, Mitchell & Co., declared yesterday that he had been besieged with hundreds of letters from poor persons over the country demanding refund of money which Kennedy, Mitchell & Co., as foreign exchange agents, had failed to transmit to relatives in Europe. Against these demands William H. Griffen, the receiver, is helpless, as he has been able to recover only $100 of assets.

Mr. Blumenthal estimated that $500,000 intrusted to Kennedy, Mitchell & Co. for war sufferers, had never been delivered.

A letter received by Mr. Blumenthal from a lawyer, Dallett H. Wilson of Bethlehem, Penn., representing the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, says that clients there have been notified by friends in Europe that money remitted through Kennedy, Mitchell & Co., had not been received by them.

"The Bethlehem Steel Corporation employes several thousand foreigners," says the letter, "and as they draw their wages, after deducting their living expenses, they have been in the habit of going to a local banker to have him forward their money to relatives in Europe through some bank or brokerage concern. This he did through Kennedy, Mitchell & Co., making fifty different remittances aggregating $6,156.90. The foreigners are coming to his office now stating that their relatives never received this money through Kennedy, Mitchell & Co."

Kennedy was recently arrested in Spain, but has not been extradited. Although Kennedy, Mitchell & Co., advertised as a $10,000,000 banking corporation with more than $5,500,000 capital paid, the receiver has been able to find only $100. No news has been received as to the whereabouts of any of the Directors, excepting a rumor that two of them were living in splendor in Havana.

'THE ITALIAN BATTLE FRONT'

First Official Moving Pictures Give a Novel View of the War.

All Italy, Little and Big, was at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre last night to witness the first series of motion pictures to be issued with the official sanction of the Italian Government. Big Italy was represented by the Italian Ambassador and Consul General. Foremost among distinguished Americans was former Justice Hughes.

The two latter portions of the program, representing the Battle of Gorizia and Adriatic warfare of the sky and sea, were full of vivid and thrilling adventure. Thanks to the telephoto, far distant scenes of action were brought near, with the bursting of huge shells and the slaughter of combatants. But the scenes that remain most vivid in memory are those of the operations in the Adamello, on the crests of the snow-clad Alps.

On the frontiers of other nations, the human element in the conflict lives for the most part under ground, in mud and water, rarely emerging to earth's level "over the top." In the Adamello the firing line is in the eternal snows, among clouds and stars.

For the men in the trenches of France, food and ammunition are brought by rail and motor lorry; the wounded are returned by motor ambulance. Modern science and industrial organization are supreme, and the individual human element is submerged—or seems so in the pictorial record. In the Adamello all the vast material of war guns, shells, rations, and even the timbers of warehouse and shelter—is brought piece by piece on the backs of men or on huge sleds, each drawn literally by battalions of soldiers. Mile after mile the snow trail winds, through steep ravines and up seemingly impassable precipices. And when the battle is over the wounded are returned to the hospital in the valley on the backs of their comrades.

INS

NEW YORK MEN WHO HAVE ACCEPTED SERVICE IN THE NATIONAL ARMY

THE LISTS HERE PUBLISHED INCLUDE ALL THE ACCEPTANCES OBTAINABLE LAST NIGHT FROM THE DISTRICT BOARDS IN SESSION IN MANHATTAN, THE BRONX, BROOKLYN, AND QUEENS.

Reports received yesterday from seventy-nine Exemption Boards in the city showed that 10,107 men had been examined and that 2,638 had not claimed exemption, making, on this basis, an average of nearly thirty-four accepted by each board.

Under the caption "Yesterday's Report," the results of the work in each district heard from are shown. Opposite the word "examined" in each case is the number of men who came before the board for physical examination. Opposite "exempted" is the number of men who, because of public service automatically making them unavailable for the draft army, foreign birth, or physical disability, were rejected or excused by the examiners. Opposite "claiming exemption" is the number of men who were found physically and otherwise acceptable for service in the draft army, but announced their intention of claiming exemption. Opposite "not claiming" is the number of men who were physically fit and made no claim for exemption.

It should be noted that many of those claiming exemption may be drafted into the army, their claims being denied, and that others not claiming exemption when declared physically acceptable may file claims for exemption within the period allowed them for this purpose.

BIGGEST CORN CROP IN COMING HARVEST

OTHER CEREALS FLOURISH

Potatoes Promise to Break Record—Great Response to the President's Appeal.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—A corn crop surpassing any ever grown before, a reduction in wheat prospects, due to damage to the Spring wheat crop, and record crops of barley, rye, white and sweet potatoes, tobacco and hay were forecast today in the Aug. 1 crop report of the Department of Agriculture.

Corn production was placed at 3,101,000,000 bushels, an increase of 67,000,000 bushels over the July forecast and 68,000,000 bushels above the record crop of 1912. The showing is due to vast improvement in the growing corn in Illinois, Iowa, and Missouri.

In Kansas the condition declined to 33 per cent. of a normal, compared with 66 per cent. on July 1, and as a result the Kansas crop is forecast at 81,740,000 bushels, compared with 109,536,000 bushels forecast in July. Oklahoma's crop showed a decline from 61 per cent. of a normal to 30 per cent., with production forecasts reduced from 65,592,000 bushels to 33,844,000 bushels.

Spring wheat production forecast in July at 276,000,000 bushels showed the results of adverse weather conditions. The prospects are put at 236,019,000 bushels, a drop of about 40,000,000 bushels from the July 1 report. North Dakota's crop suffered most, with a loss in prospective production of about 15,000,000 bushels, while South Dakota lost about 3,000,000 bushels and Washington 7,000,000 bushels.

Improvement in Winter Wheat.

Winter wheat, however, is turning out better than previously forecast, with a forecast total of 417,000,000 bushels, or 15,000,000 bushels more than indicated from July conditions.

The combined yield of Winter and Spring wheat, therefore, shows a reduction of 25,000,000 bushels from the production forecast in July. The crop, forecast from Aug. 1 conditions, will be only 653,000,000 bushels, or 13,000,000 bushels more than harvested last year.

White potatoes are expected to yield 467,000,000 bushels, or 15,000,000 bushels more than forecast from July conditions, and 47,000,000 bushels more than the record crop of 1912. Sweet potatoes also will be a record with 86,400,000 bushels.

There will be an enormous crop of tobacco, almost 120,000,000 pounds larger than the record production of last year. The buckwheat crop will be the largest in many years, and oats will come close to equaling the record made in 1915.

With more than 343,000 square miles planted to the important crops, not taking into account the vastly increased number of home gardens, the United States has more than one-ninth of its entire area growing in food crops. That is larger than the combined area of all the States from Maine to the Indiana-Illinois line and south to the North Carolina-Virginia line and the Ohio River, including West Virginia.

Bumper crops of corn and oats, and record crops of barley, rye, white and sweet potatoes, tobacco, and hay show the response of the farmers of the country to President Wilson's appeal made in April last to produce larger crops this year for war use.

Forecasts of Principal Crops.

Following are the forecasts of production of the principal crops, as estimated by the crop reporting board from the thousands of reports on conditions Aug. 1, received by it from every part of the country, (figures are in millions of bushels, i. e., 000,000's omitted,) with the forecasts made from July 1 conditions, and last year's final production:

BUYING UP WOOL AGAIN.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say tomorrow:

"Probable action of the Government in taking over at least 50 per cent. of the wool of the Boston wool trade has led some manufacturers to commence buying again, and considerably more wool was sold last week than in the previous week. The proposition to offer the wool to the Government is the chief topic of interest at the present time. The trade will be notified when samples are desired.

"Selling on the part of spinners is one thing which will put the cotton market down eventually. The most critical period for the crop is yet to be passed. Recent news from Texas again indicates the need of rain, if a substantial-sized crop is to be realized. The crop east of the rivers is said to be making seasonable progress.

"Altogether the woolen goods market appears relatively strong under a comparatively small distribution. Prices are high and probably will remain so until some radical development is noted. The market is conservative, but the point has been reached where speculation ought to be entirely eliminated.

"There has been no decided change in the cotton goods market in the last week. Prices remain practically the same and the improvement is merely shown in the somewhat larger buying and the interest of buyers in obtaining more goods at lower prices.

"To a large extent the improvement has not affected manufacturers—that is, a relatively large part of the business has been of a second-hand character. The total sales have been less than the producing capacity, but sellers, at state that they feel no anxiety as to the future, first, because they have orders on hand for some time to come, and second, because they believe new ordering will be noted before present contracts expire. Even though producers are feeling optimuistic, they are not so sure of their position as they were a month ago."

PLANS WHEAT CROP OF A BILLION BUSHELS

Houston Calls on Farmers to Sow 47,337,000 Acres to Wheat and 5,131,000 to Rye This Fall.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The production of more than 1,000,000,000 bushels of wheat and more than 88,000,000 bushels of rye, through the planting of 47,337,000 acres of Winter wheat and of 5,131,000 acres to rye this Fall, is the immediate war agricultural program for the nation announced today by David F. Houston, Secretary of Agriculture.

This record Winter wheat acreage, an increase of 18 per cent. over last year, would yield 672,000,000 bushels if the average yield for the last ten years is equaled, or under a repetition of the favorable conditions of 1914 would give 886,000,000 bushels. In either case, with a Spring wheat crop next year equal to that of 1915, the nation will have more than 1,000,000,000 bushels of wheat for domestic use and export.

This vastly increased production of wheat, needed in any case, will be absolutely essential to prevent a serious shortage of breadstuffs next Summer should the growing corn, now behind the season, be much damaged by early frosts. The program approved by the Secretary of Agriculture represents the best thought of the Department of Agriculture and of State agricultural officials and State councils of defense.

The planting and cultivation of these increased acreages of fall-sown grains calls for unusual effort on the part of the farmers. Plans to place at the disposal of farmers all assistance possible are being perfected in the Department of Agriculture, the State colleges of agriculture, and other State and local agencies which co-operate in farming matters. The assistance of successful growers of wheat and rye in a campaign to turn out bumper crops in 1918 is assured.

The State officials will do their utmost to get the acreages expected of their States into the ground. The program originally worked out by the department called for somewhat more than 44,000,000 acres to be sown this Fall. When this proposal was presented to the officials of the several States a further increase was considered possible and desirable by them. As a consequence the recommendation for the sowing of 47,337,000 acres is made.

For Kansas, where more than one-fifth of the Winter wheat of the country was sown in 1916 and a campaign for an increase already is under way, an increase of more than a million acres, or one-seventh of the total increase, is recommended. Ohio is asked for one and one-tenth million acres over last year's sowings. This is considered possible and desirable by the agricultural leaders of the State. Because of available land in the State, Oklahoma is asked to increase the acreage one-fourth, amounting to more than 900,000 acres. Indiana and Illinois are asked to increase their acreage by somewhat more than a half million acres, thereby equaling what they have sown in the recent past. Oregon, because of the abnormally low acreage sown last Fall, is asked to increase the acreage this Fall by one-quarter million acres, or 50 per cent. These six States, Kansas, Ohio, Oklahoma, Indiana, Illinois, and Oregon, in which nearly one-half of the Winter wheat was sown last Fall, are asked to furnish considerably more than one-half of the increase planned for this Fall. Their agricultural leaders think it is possible and are taking the necessary steps to see that it is done.

STEEL PRICE TOO LOW.

Wall Street Told That Schwab Refused a Government Order.

The Wall Street Journal circulated a report here yesterday that the Bethlehem Steel Company had declined its share of a Government order for steel rails for use in France on the ground that the price set, $40 a ton, was unreasonable, that being the cost of manufacture alone.

Selling of Bethlehem Steel stock followed the circulation of this report, although investigation failed to produce any confirmation of it, either from Charles M. Schwab, President of the Bethlehem Company, or in Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Penn., Aug. 8.—E. G. Grace, President of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, officially denied today that the company had refused to furnish rails to the United States Government for use in France. He says the matter is now under negotiation with Government officials, the price suggested by the Government being below the cost of manufacture. To prevent any delay in supplying the rails the company has offered to proceed with the manufacture, leaving the price to be settled later by the Federal Trade Commission.

NEW HOSPITAL PLANS.

The Knickerbocker to Occupy Block in Convent Avenue.

Plans for the new building of the Knickerbocker Hospital were filed yesterday by the architects, Helme & Corbett, of Brooklyn, who designed the Bush Terminal commercial structure nearing completion on the south side of Forty-second Street, near Times Square. The new hospital will occupy the entire block front on the west side of Convent Avenue, between 130th and 131st Streets, the plot having a frontage of nearly 217 feet on the avenue, 138 feet on 130th Street, and 84.5 feet on 131st Street, opposite the grounds of the Convent of the Sacred Heart. It is estimated to cost $350,000.

The main building will be six stories high, with a large roof garden and a circular operating room on the top floor. Two floors will be devoted to private wards, containing about 200 rooms, and the general ward rooms will provide for over 200 additional patients.

The present hospital occupies a plot at the northwest corner of Amsterdam Avenue and 131st Street. It was formerly known as the J. Hood Wright Hospital.

Gibson Still Heads Liberty National.

A Washington dispatch printed yesterday morning, which announced the appointment of Harvey D. Gibson as Colonel under the organization of the American Red Cross on a military basis, referred to Colonel Gibson as having been "recently President of the Liberty National Bank of New York City." That statement was an error, inasmuch as Colonel Gibson retains his Presidency of the Liberty National, and has only tendered his services to the Red Cross for the duration of the war or as long as the Government may see fit to use him.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Steel Shares Lead in Slump—Crop Showing Disappoints —A Few Gains.

A sharp reaction in the steel issues which took place in the last half hour of yesterday's session may have resulted from publication of the report that the Bethlehem Steel Corporation had refused to accept its quota of the French Government's rail order at prices fixed by the United States; it may have been caused by fear that finished steel prices will be held down without any arbitrary control of other important items; or it may have been brought about by publication of the unfavorable Aug. 1 wheat crop figures. Undoubtedly these considerations aided in the pronounced slump, but the belief in brokerage circles was that the break had been induced largely by the creation of a new short interest in stocks. Certainly the discovery that Bethlehem and United States Steel were not well supported when a little pressure was applied invited bear attacks, and the sudden increase in activity supported the theory that professional selling was mainly responsible for the wide break.

No one knows yet what basis steel mills will be asked to accept for their products, but it is not expected in the trade that the Federal Trade Commission will be able to arrive at figures which will approximate the actual average cost of production. For this reason it is expected that the Government will reduce prices where they appear to be unreasonable, and will not attempt to establish arbitrary quotations for all the principal articles. The report that Mr. Schwab had refused to turn out rails for France at a low figure created uneasiness as being possibly the forerunner of a bitter controversy between manufacturers and the Government authorities. The Steel Corporation has already agreed with the Council of National Defense to accept whatever prices the authorities consider fair, but a number of the smaller companies are likely to line up with the Bethlehem in holding out for payments based on present costs plus a fair profit. Selling of Bethlehem had started before this information became public, the B stock falling to 114½ the low of the day. It closed at 115, with a net decline of 9¼ points, while a loss of exactly that size was also sustained by the old stock. Steel common broke to 122½ and closed with a net decline of 4½. Lackawanna lost 3%, Republic 2¾, Colorado Fuel & Iron 2¼, and Baldwin Locomotive 4 points. With few exceptions the industrials all closed with declines, some of them rather large. Prominent among the few issues which gained by the day's movements were Air Brake, which advanced 4½ points, and American International Corporation, which established a new high at 62 on heavy dealings.

The crop report was more unfavorable than had been expected, the showing in Spring wheat proving particularly disappointing. The Aug. 1 condition of 68.7 showed a loss of nearly 15 per cent. in the month, with a decrease of 40,000,000 bushels for the estimated yield from the figures supplied for July 1. It still appears that the corn crop will more than offset the shortage of wheat, indications now pointing to a crop of 2,100,000,000 bushels or more than the record yield of 1912.

Uncertainty continues to dominate the steel markets. The iron Age pointing out that buying for the Allies is being held up by the coal inquiry, which is progressing more slowly than had been planned. The steel trade is disturbed by the fact that there has been no suggestion from Washington that manufacturers who buy finished iron and steel be subjected to control.

LONDON MARKET CHEERFUL.

War Loans Are Well Supported and Russian Shares Rise.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The stock market continued cheerful though quiet today, with renewed support to all war loans and a rise in Russian shares the chief features. Several industrial and shipping shares were in demand, but Scandinavian issues were weak following the recovery in exchange.

Money was plentiful and discount rates were quiet owing to the scarcity of bills.

Treasury returns show that revenue is accumulating freely, especially through Treasury bills, of which £61,000,000 were sold last week.

FRENCH LOAN'S PROFITS.

Securities Company Declares a 5 Per Cent. Semi-Annual Dividend.

The American Foreign Securities Company, which was organized about a year ago with a capital of $10,000,000, for the purpose of lending to the Republic of France the sum of $100,000,000 for three years, has declared a semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent., payable on Aug. 15 to holders of record on that date. The French Government lodged with the company, about $114,000,000 of neutral Government securities and American issues, and the company sold to the public its three-year 5 per cent. collateral gold notes to the amount of $94,500,000. The notes are due Aug. 1, 1919.

The first annual report of the company, which has just been issued, shows the following income: Interest on loans to the Republic of France, $7,280,000; interest on bank balances, $60,061; total income, $7,340,061. Disbursements consisted of: Interest on deferred 2½ notes of French Government, $2,268,000; interest on three-year notes, less interest on notes purchased, $4,708,550; amortization of discount, $1,473,415; sundry expenses, $35,064; taxes accrued, $7,000, making total expenses $8,302,904. The balance was $1,013,177, which, after the payment of the dividends, amounting to $1,000,000, left a surplus of $13,177.

On July 31, 1917, the market value of the collateral held by the Bankers Trust Company, as trustee, was computed at $120,587,075, which is in excess of 120 per cent. of the par value of the outstanding notes.

THE COTTON MARKET

Early Advance Based on Peace Hope, Followed by Break—Showers Reported in Texas.

An early advance was followed by a violent break in the cotton market yesterday. The opening strength reflected increasing confidence in larger exports, a growing hope of peace developments, and continued nervousness over the crop outlook in the Southwest. Later, however, the market was influenced by the outlook for showers in Texas, a favorable weekly report as to the crop condition from the Weather Bureau, and renewed advices that cotton was heading in this direction from the South. Near months were relatively weak on the break which carried October contracts off from 26.80 to 25.55, while August broke from 27.77 to 27. The general list closed steady at a net decline of 62 points on August and of 16 to 40 points on other months.

The opening was 26 to 48 points higher on renewed covering and buying of new crop months by houses with Liverpool connections. Stop orders were uncovered, sending the market about 38 to 48 points net higher right after the call, with December and January both selling at 28.10, or back to within 10 points of Tuesday's high level. After the stop orders had been executed, however, demand tapered off very sharply. This suggested that the scattering short interest had been pretty well covered and rendered the market more sensitive to the forecast for showers in the Southwest, while the favorable showing of the weekly weather report seemed to revive views of the crop which had prevailed before the publication of the August bureau reports that unusually large shipments reported from St. Louis during the last two or three days including some cotton coming to New York, increased the nervousness of the market in the late trading, but the close was a few points up from the lowest on covering.

Reports that Great Britain had launched the first of the 8,000-ton standardized freight carriers, probably contributed to the more optimistic view of export probabilities, while the more cheerful feeling as to peace prospects appeared to be based upon the reports that a French buying agent was on his way to this country to make large purchases of implements and commodities used in peaceful occupations. The renewed agitation that cotton be placed on the embargo list seemed to create no fresh sentiment, as the question of exports is supposed to hinge upon freight room rather than available destinations. No exports were reported for the day.

Southern spot markets were 100 points higher to 75 points lower. Transportation difficulties may be responsible for some of the very irregular fluctuations and normal parities between markets are hardly to be expected while shipping conditions are so uncertain. Yesterday's quotations follow:

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The most important factor in the wheat market during the day was the publication of the Government report, which took place after the close of the market. It had been expected that the loss in Spring wheat would be offset by a corresponding gain in Winters, but, while the Spring wheat yield lost 40,000,000 bushels from last month's showing, Winters gained only 15,000,000 bushels, and on the whole the report was looked upon as disappointing. The Winter wheat crop was placed at 417,000,000 bushels and Spring 238,000,000, making a total indicated yield of 655,000,000 bushels, compared with last month's estimate of 678,000,000 bushels, and last year's final crop of 639,856,000 bushels. In the local cash market No. 2 red Winter wheat was quoted at $2.55 and No. 2 hard at $2.70 nominal, free on board, New York.

CORN.

The Government report on corn was about in line with expectations, the indicated yield being placed at 3,161,000,000 bushels, compared with last month's estimate of 3,124,000,000 and a final crop last year of 2,583,243,000 bushels. The market during the day was firm, despite further rains over the belt which were expected to be a benefit to the crop. The cash position was again the dominating factor, and it was said that in the West new cash corn for December delivery had sold at $1.80, despite the fact that the December position there was selling around $1.17¼, with a fixed maximum of $1.28. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $2.43 and No. 2 mixed at $2.41, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

The oats market was steady to firm, with a good demand from shorts, closing prices being ¾c net higher. The Government report failed to confirm the phenomenal yields reported through private sources, the total indicated crop being 1,456,000,000 bushels, an increase of only 8,000,000 bushels from last month. The local cash market was easy, with quotations largely nominal; standard quoted at 55¾c; No. 2 white, 55¼c; No. 3 white, 54 to 55c; No. 4 white, 53 to 54c; fancy clipped white, 55 to 57c; ordinary clipped white, 53 to 55c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was quiet, but prices were firmer. There was a fair demand from commission houses, prompted by the continued strength in cash corn and bullish reports from abroad regarding maximum prices there. The political situation was looked upon as containing a possibility of bullish developments. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 25,000; estimated for Thursday, 20,000. Kansas City received 9,000 and Omaha 11,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil was feverish, but the undertone was firm and final prices were 10 to 90 points net higher. Total sales for the day were 30,700 barrels. There was active profit taking at times and the market was subject to occasional reactions, although the close was near the top. The firmness in lard and the advance in cotton had more or less influence, although the erratic action of the latter market kept the trade in a state of nervousness. Other oils and greases have recently developed a firmer tone, and this has served to help revive confidence despite the fact that the outlook for export business seems poor and supplies are believed to be quite liberal.

COFFEE.

Except for switching by September longs into later months, there was practically no feature in the coffee market yesterday. The flurry of interest created by recent frost reports appeared to have entirely subsided, and the trade evidently felt a renewed inclination to await developments. In many quarters a bearish view is still in evidence on a belief that Brazil cannot maintain prices as new crop receipts begin to accumulate should the war continue. Selling on such theories is restricted, however, by the uncertainties of import costs and facilities, and also by the fact that compared with other commodities coffee values have shown little or no response to inflation. The local spot market remained quiet, with quotations on the basis of 9¼c for Rio 7s and 10½c for Santos 4s.

SUGAR.

There were no price changes in refined sugar, the list ranging from 8.40c to 8.70c, less 2 per cent. for cash. The Federal and Warner remain withdrawn from the market and other local refiners are accepting only a very small business. It is difficult to buy sugar at any price, and with an advancing market for raw supplies the position which has developed in granulated is a very strong one.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 17,926 packages. There is still considerable speculative support to the market, and with continued active buying prices showed an advance. Distributing trade is still very quiet, but offerings of fancy creamery are being closely taken for storage. A somewhat better tone to the market on lower grades of creamery. Renovated scarce. Ladles and packing stock higher. Creamery, higher than extras, per pound, 40¾@41¼c; extras, (92 score.) 40¼c; firsts, (88 to 91 score.) 39¾@40c; seconds, (83 to 87 score.) 37¼@38¾c; thirds, 36½@36¾c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 41¾@42¼c; extras, 41@41½c; firsts, 40¼@40¾c; seconds, 38@39c. EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 10,856 cases. High qualities of fresh goods, free from hot weather defects, are very scarce, and any lots showing a fair to large proportion of such are promptly taken, with prices tending in sellers' favor and sales reported at rather better prices than recently quoted. The medium and lower grades are freely offered, and values show a very wide range, much of the supply containing a majority of heated and partially hatched eggs and losses on many lots being considerable. Nearby eggs continue in light supply, and, while stored receivers report no change in their selling prices, it is difficult to obtain enough high-grade, heat-free stock to satisfy the wants of the highest class of trade. Storage eggs held with rather more confidence, but trading is limited and sales reported are fairly covered by recent quotations. Fresh gathered, extras, per dozen, 41@42c; extra firsts, 39@40c; firsts, 36@38c; seconds, 34@35c; thirds and poorer, 25@32c; dirties, No. 1, 29@30c; No. 2 and poorer, 18@28c; checks, good to choice dry, 27@28c; undergrades, 18@26c. B. & O. NET REVENUE CUT.

Increased Income More Than Consumed by Mounting Costs.

The ninety-first annual report of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, which will be issued to the stockholders today, shows, despite an increase of $16,251,215 in gross operating revenues, a decrease of $556,477 in net operating income for the year, compared with the previous year. The two reports overlap for six months, however, as the company has changed its fiscal year to conform to the calendar year, in order to comply with rules of the Interstate Commerce Commission and several State commissions.

The falling off in net revenue was due in part to the increased costs of labor, supplies, and material, from which every railroad in the United States has suffered, but also, the report states, to the adoption of a more liberal policy in maintenance charges. As a result maintenance charges increased $9,166,977 during the year, and transportation expenses $6,919,990, in a total operating expense of $84,460,294. As the total revenues were $116,968,881, the ratio of operating expenses to revenues was 72.21 per cent., against 67.17 per cent. for the previous year.

The net operating revenue was $32,508,587, and after fixed and other charges had been met, and the dividends of 4 per cent. upon the preferred and 5 per cent. upon the common stock paid, this left a surplus for the year of $2,611,608. This is equivalent to an earning of 6.71 per cent. upon the common stock. The report shows that freight revenues, forming 78.56 per cent. of the total operating revenues, increased 15.94 per cent. in the year; passenger revenue 13.64 per cent.; express revenue, 16.24 per cent.; and mail revenue 2.78 per cent. Taxes increased 17.07 per cent.

Through the Commercial Development Department 295 new industries requiring side-track connections, including thirty-three coal developments, were located on the company's lines during the last six months of the year. "This newly created department," says a statement issued by President Willard and the directors, "has established bureaus for the systematic study of the natural resources of the territory through which the road operates, and for making industrial surveys of the cities and towns upon the line, to ascertain their resources and requirements and co-operate in their development."

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Nearly 50,000 shares of United States Steel common and 30,000 shares of Bethlehem Steel B changed hands on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. They were the stocks which led the market downward. Government price fixing plans were the overshadowing influence all day. In the afternoon an additional market factor was supplied by the circulation of a rumor that some fresh peace development was impending. Commission houses handled a broadly distributed business in odd lots. For a time the railroad stocks were firm, but they afterward softened with the rest of the list.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Little real trading yesterday, but many rumors of pending deals were current in the realty market. One of the latter had to do with the new thirteen-story apartment house being erected by Klein & Jackson at the northeast corner of Madison Avenue and Seventy-second Street. The agents, Douglas L. Elliman & Co., admitted that negotiations had been pending for several months, but that the situation had not yet approached any positive possibility of a sale.

A foreclosure action was instituted against the eleven-story Marbridge Building, covering nearly the entire block front on the east side of Sixth Avenue, between Thirty-fourth and Thirty-fifth Streets, 114.8 feet by 150 on Thirty-fourth Street, opposite the Hotel McAlpin. The proceedings were brought in the Supreme Court by the National City Company against Alfred Marling, Robert Thorne and George Leask, as trustees under a deed of trust executed by the late William H. H. Martin and Elisabeth T. Martin, on Dec. 29, 1911, to foreclose a mortgage of $600,000. Sherman & Sterling of 55 Wall Street are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

The ground floor of the building is occupied by one of the Rogers Peet clothing stores, of which firm the late Mr. Martin was a member.

The property is a portion of the large site acquired last week by Mr. Russell and leased to the Adams Express Company for a large service building.

They will be improved with apartment houses. In part payment Mr. Allen took a plot, 97 by 100 feet, on the west side of Twelfth Avenue, 200 feet south of Jamaica Avenue.

The Utica Orphan Asylum and the Home for the Aged Men and Cripples of Utica have sold to L. Lunham and to W. Lunham the plot 125 by 200 feet on the southeast corner of North Street and Union Place, Jamaica.

A.G. VANDERBILT LEFT NEARLY $17,000,000

Trust Fund of $5,000,000 for His Widow and $3,000,000 Outright.

HAD MILLIONS IN STOCKS

Son by First Wife Receives Fund of $4,612,000 Left by Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who was drowned on the Lusitania on May 7, 1915, left an estate appraised yesterday at $16,760,314, but he also disposed in his will of a fund of $4,612,086 left him for life by his father, Cornelius Vanderbilt. His net estate, exclusive of the trust fund, was $4,612,086. The debts of more than $4,000,000 included $2,000,000 due his wife, Mrs. Margaret Emerson Vanderbilt, under an ante-nuptial agreement made on Dec. 15, 1911, in London, just prior to his marriage to her. By the agreement she waived all right to dower interest in his realty or interest in any personal property in consideration of the transfer to her at his death of $2,000,000 in marketable securities. This gift was not taxable, although Mrs. Vanderbilt did not come into possession of the securities until after her husband's death.

The gifts under the will to the widow other than the $2,000,000 ante-nuptial fund included the following: One million dollars each; Sagamore Lodge, Adirondacks, valued at $200,000; contents of the lodge, $10,117; the Moose River tract, Adirondacks, $20,000, and a trust fund of $5,000,000. Upon the death of Mrs. Vanderbilt the $5,000,000 goes to her sons, Alfred, aged 4, and George, 2 years old, the principal to be paid when they reach various ages, and final distribution to be made at 25. Each son also received $100,000 outright.

The will did not mention Mr. Vanderbilt's first wife, Elsie French Vanderbilt, but gave to her son, William H. Vanderbilt, the $4,612,086 fund left the decedent by his father, Cornelius Vanderbilt, and $500,000 for life for the maintenance of Oakland Farm at Newport. The oldest son also got the gold medal voted by Congress to Commodore Vanderbilt, grandfather of the decedent, in 1885, an oil painting of Commodore Vanderbilt, unsigned, appraised at $100, and one of the wife of Commodore Vanderbilt, painted by Pagnani in 1866, appraised at $250.

Mr. Vanderbilt gave $500,000 to his brother, Reginald C. Vanderbilt, and $200,000 to his uncle, Frederick W. Vanderbilt. Henry B. Anderson got $250,000, and Frederick L. Merriam, who attended to the decedent's financial matters, received $250,000. The three latter were named as Trustees and executors, and the bequests were in lieu of commissions. Charles E. Crocker, his secretary, received $10,000, and Charles H. Wilson, who had charge of his horses, received $2,500. Mr. Vanderbilt gave bequests of from $250 to $1,500 to twenty-four employes.

Some of the Realty Holdings.

The largest realty holding appraised in the report is the Vanderbilt Hotel, which is valued at $5,000,000. Other parcels were 96 Park Avenue, $70,000; 40 East Fortieth Street, $100,000, and a half interest in the following: One hundred and Twenty-four Nassau Street, $31,500; 198 Nassau Street, $252,000; 15 to 17 Beekman Street, $218,750; 155 South Street, $6,750; 245 Front Street, $3,825, and 247 Front Street, $3,825.

The report shows that Mr. Vanderbilt's bank deposits amounted to only $24,779. No part of the moneys or personal property he had with him on the Lusitania was recovered. His personal effects in his suite on the eighteenth floor of the Vanderbilt Hotel were valued at $13,314. His yacht, the Wayfarer, was valued at $170,000, and the yacht Adroit was appraised at $12,500. His private car, Wayfarer, with contents valued at $1,294, was sold for $13,000, but was appraised at $18,000. He had four autos worth $11,500, ranging from 1907 to 1914 models.

Mr. Vanderbilt held notes of $100,000 made by Mrs. Mabel Brady Garvan, daughter of the late Anthony Brady, given in part payment for Camp Kill Kare in the Adirondacks, which she bought from Mr. Vanderbilt after he had purchased it from the Timothy L. Woodruff estate; $25,000 note of the Knickerbocker Club, and a $100,000 note made by Charles F. Williamson, art dealer and personal friend of Mr. Vanderbilt, who perished with him.

His brother Reginald owed him $44,067. The value of the estate does not include a claim made by the executors against the Travelers Insurance Company for $250,000 on an accident policy. The insurance company is defending a suit brought by the estate and contends that the policy was void in case of death directly or indirectly due to the war, or to exposure to unnecessary danger. The valuation does not include also Mr. Vanderbilt's property in England or realty in other States.

The total value of Mr. Vanderbilt's jewelry was only $892. He had six sterling silver trophy cups worth $130, and five fur coats valued at $1,285.

Millions in Stocks and Bonds.

Mr. Vanderbilt's stocks and bonds were appraised at $12,172,884, the bulk of which was in New York Central bonds. The only bonds appraised as worthless were $50,000 Raquette Lake Railway, $12,000 Raquette Lake Transportation Company, $7,000 Fulton Navigation Company, and $4,000 Fulton Chain Railway. His worthless stocks were 400 Long Island Motor Parkway preferred and 200 common, 272 United States Hotel Company, Saratoga, and shares in the Fulton Chain and Raquette Lake corporations. Mr. Vanderbilt's stocks included the following:

11,800	New York Central	$980,000
28,110	Pittsburgh & Lake Erie	4,919,250
10,100	Pullman	1,545,300

The transfer tax report shows that the funeral expenses were $32,000 and that $1,167 was paid for searching for Mr. Vanderbilt's body, which was not recovered. The estate owed $66,295 for Federal income tax, and $31,930 to Mr. Vanderbilt's English solicitor for disbursements made in his behalf and $13,130 for services. The English income tax was $1,058. A settlement of $1,191 was made with Adrea Manners in London on a personal injury claim.

At the time of his death Mr. Vanderbilt owed the following sums on notes made a few months before: Harry Payne Whitney, $100,000; Guaranty Trust Company, $450,000; Union Trust Company, $350,000; Lincoln National Bank, $100,000, and Davies, Thomas & Co., $340,000. The total debts were $8,817,621.

Mrs. Griscom's Estate $365,896.

The estate of Mrs. Elizabeth Bronson Griscom, wife of Lloyd C. Griscom, ex-Ambassador to Italy, who died on Nov. 16, 1914, was appraised yesterday at $365,896, in addition to which she disposed in her will of $89,296 left to her in trust under the will of her father, Frederic Bronson. She gave $2,000 a year to her aunt, May King Van Rensselaer, and divided the remainder of the estate between her husband and her sons, Bronson and Lloyd Griscom. Her jewelry was appraised at $23,874, of which $13,000 was the value of a necklace containing fifty-five pearls and $3,000 the value of a diamond tiara.

SENATE CONFIRMS COLBY.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The nomination of Bainbridge Colby of New York as a member of the Shipping Board was confirmed by the Senate today by a vote of 34 to 16. Opposition to the nomination was led by Senators Calder and Wadsworth of New York, who contended that, as Mr. Colby had voted for President Wilson at the last election, he must be regarded as a Democrat, and that, therefore, he was not qualified for the office, the law creating the board providing for the appointment of not more than three persons of the same political faith. Not counting Mr. Colby, three of the Commissioners are Democrats.

Senator Johnson, Republican of California, and Senators Fletcher of Florida and Lewis of Illinois, Democrats, spoke in favor of the appointment of Mr. Colby, contending that he had long been identified with the Republican Party, and then with the Progressive Party, and that, although he had supported President Wilson at the last election, it was as an independent voter.

In the vote on confirmation, Senators Kenyon, Norris, Johnson, and Poindexter voted with the Democrats in favor of the nomination, while Senators Hitchcock and Reed, Democrats, voted against it.

McColby succeeds Captain John B. White, whose resignation as a member of the Shipping Board was accepted by President Wilson, together with those of William Denman and Major Gen. Goethals. There still is one vacancy on the board.

LAKE GEORGE HOME OF G. O. KNAPP BURNS

LOSS PLACED AT $150,000

Great Pipe Organ and Many Valuable Paintings Included Among the Furnishings.

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The costly Summer home of George O. Knapp of Chicago, on Shelving Rock, was destroyed by fire early this morning. Only servants were in the house at the time.

Mr. Knapp's mountain home was one of the show places of Lake George. Nestling in the woods of a great slope, it commanded a view both north and south. It stood near the Narrows, eleven miles from the railroad station, about one-third the distance down the lake and 250 feet up Shelving Rock promontory from the shore. It was reached by an electric inclined railway.

In the house was a big pipe organ, many valuable paintings, and other works of art. The house itself, the decorations, and beautiful park and natural surroundings earned for it the title of the most beautiful place in the neighborhood.

Some ten or fifteen years ago Mr. Knapp was fishing on Lake George when he became attracted by the beauty of the location of the old Hundred Isle House, on Shelving Rock. He found it was for sale and bought it, turning it into a fishing lodge, where he often took parties of friends. Some years later he bought about two miles of the shore front, including one or two mountains. Then he tore down the old hotel and built his Summer home, which he furnished in a lavish fashion. The loss by the fire is estimated at $150,000.

Mr. Knapp is interested in a gas company and other public utilities of Chicago.

POLICE HUNT FOR BURGLARS

Start Crusade to Stop Frequent Thefts in Mercantile District.

A squad of detectives of the District Attorney's office started on a hunt yesterday for a band of burglars responsible for numerous robberies aggregating many thousands of dollars in the mercantile districts. Immediately there, after three of the largest receivers of stolen goods in the city, learning of the activity in the District Attorney's office, disappeared and left no trace of their whereabouts, further than that they were off on an indefinite "vacation."

Assistant District Attorney Dooling, who has taken charge of the anti-burglary crusade, received from the Burglary Insurance Underwriters' Association, representing twenty concerns writing burglary insurance, a list of 1,500 burglaries for which claims have been filed and allowed since Jan. 1. In checking up the claims, amounting to $70,800, Mr. Dooling found that only in one or two cases had there been any recovery of goods or any arrests.

The United States Casualty Company paid thirty-one claims since Jan. 1, the total losses aggregating $5,000. There were no arrests or recoveries in any of their cases. The Employers' Liability Assurance Company had thirty-six losses, aggregating over $13,000, in which there were no recoveries and but one arrest. The Metropolitan Casualty Company reported ten losses of a total of $3,500, with no arrests or recoveries. The United States Fidelity and Guarantee Company had twenty-six losses, aggregating $8,500, with no arrests or recoveries. The Globe Indemnity Company paid ten claims aggregating $14,000, with but one recovery, amounting to a few dollars' worth of silk found on top of a building after a fire on the premises. To one man on West Thirty-sixth Street, within a space of a few months, the Globe Indemnity Company paid two claims, aggregating more than $1,800. The Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance Company paid forty-one claims, amounting to $25,000. In all the burglaries covered by these claims there was but one arrest and no recoveries.

In some sections of the mercantile districts burglaries have become so frequent that the insurance companies are reluctant to write insurance for concerns located there. Investigation has shown that the burglars pay little or no attention to places that are guarded by burglar alarms and other mechanical appliances, but occupy themselves with premises that depend entirely upon police vigilance.
